

Boxcar Black Market To Be Probed

(c) Washington Star-News
Washington — The Interstate Commerce Commission Friday ordered a formal investigation into allegations of a black market in the supply of railroad freight cars to grain shippers.

The agency ordered six large grain companies as well as every railroad under ICC jurisdiction to take part in the investigation, which is likely to take months to complete.

In instituting the investigation, ICC Chairman George M. Stafford issued a statement saying the agency will focus on a pattern of conduct whereby certain grain companies are said to be obtaining grain bound for overseas shipment from country elevators at cut-rate prices by providing the elevator operators with badly needed freight cars.

The six grain companies named in the ICC order are the Bunge Corp., Cargill, Inc., Central Soya Co., Continental Grain Co., Inc., Louis Dreyfus Corp. and Cook Industries, Inc.

Scalawags Exist

Dean Wilder, an official at Central Soya in Fort Wayne, Ind., said he was unaware of any improper practices. "In any business there are certain amount of scalawags," Wilder said.

The allegations have arisen not only in complaints to the commission, but erupted during hearings held earlier this year by the ICC's new special office which is aiding in the restructuring of bankrupt northeastern railroads.

The ICC order said the commission's field investigation has disclosed allegations "of a pattern of conduct whereby certain grain companies operating in the export trade are offering prices for grain to country elevators or others in exchange for the furnishing of railroad-owned as well as privately owned freight cars . . . which are lower than the prices that would prevail if the equipment was readily obtainable directly from the railroads . . ."

Dealers Tie Up Cars

In effect, what the ICC is saying is that large grain dealers have been tying up large numbers of freight cars — both those owned by railroads and by private car rental firms.

In times of freight-car shortage — which is virtually every harvest season — these firms have been offering freight cars for a rakeoff on grain profits, the ICC believes.

The commission implies that such practices may be illegal if they result in rebates on transportation prices for the large grain dealers.

"One grain shipper testified that a large exporter had offered him all the cars he wanted for '20% of his after-tax profits,' an ICC report said in May.

BN Official Comments

One of the largest grain-hauling railroads is Burlington Northern. Its vice chairman and chief operating officer, Robert W. Downing, told a reporter he knew of no such practices on his railroad. He contended as well that his railroad does not allow shippers to tie up large numbers of cars.

He explained that Burlington Northern offers, as do other railroads, special rates on multiple car shipments ranging from 5-car to 25-car shipments.

Downing explained also that privately owned cars are transported at regular rates but that the railroad pays a mileage allowance to the owners of these cars that offsets some of the transportation charges.

The ICC said it wants to investigate the manner in which these multiple-car rates and mileage payments may contribute to lower transportation costs for some shippers which are further lowered when these shippers may be supplying these cars — for a fee — to grain sellers who are unable to obtain freight cars.

Treatment For 'In-Betweeners'

By LIANE GUENTHER

Star Staff Writer

A new day is dawning for elderly and disabled Nebraskans who have a tough time maintaining their independence at home or those who want to live with their families but cannot be left alone all day.

It is called day treatment for senior citizens. It's not a particularly new or novel program. It has been years in coming.

$19,150 Grant
Madonna Professional Care Center in Lincoln has recently received confirmation of a $19,150 grant from the Nebraska Regional Medical Program to "get the project rolling," said Sister Phyllis, Madonna's executive director.

Day treatment is not a panacea for people who need the services they can get only in a nursing home, she explained, but a program designed for the "in-betweeners" — those who have recently been released from hospitals or those who need supervision or mental stimulation during days when they would normally be alone.

One of the primary objectives, Sister Phyllis said, is to provide participants with a program designed to meet their specific social, psychological, physical, emotional and nutritional needs, all under one roof.

Transportation Arranged

Transportation will be arranged through the city transportation system, handi-bus service, volunteers or the participant's family.

Individual recreation projects, such as ceramics and needlecraft, will be open to participants. Nutritional needs, including special diets, will be met by meals prepared under the supervision of a dietician.

Occupational, physical and speech therapy will be available with a doctor's order, and nurses will supervise and administer prescribed medication and treatment.

Services Offered

Madonna also offers its day treatment clients a well-stocked library, attractive reading and television areas, services of a full-time hairdresser, part-time barber, podiatrist and dentist, pharmaceutical services and an all-faiths chapel for religious services.

Day treatment can give participants individualized care at a cost less than 24-hour nursing care, Sister Phyllis pointed out.

Tentatively, the initial daily cost has been set at $11.50, all inclusive.

Another important aspect of day treatment is that it comes to the rescue of the working family which wants to keep an elderly parent living at home. The conflict arises when the elderly person is no longer capable of staying alone during the day.

1971 Study

The elderly are admitted in large numbers to long-term care institutions because they can no longer remain in home environments, Sister Phyllis said, citing a 1971 study conducted by the Lincoln Area-wide Model Project on Aging.

Results indicated that doctors attribute non-medical factors as the reasons for 32% of their referrals to nursing homes.

A more recent survey at Madonna showed that of 70 admissions, 27 were potential day treatment participants, she added.

Putting an elderly person in an institution unnecessarily not only taxes available nursing home beds, but leaves the family with feelings of guilt.

'Not A Home'

"We try to avoid institutionalizing a person who could easily remain a viable part of the community," Sister Phyllis said. "An institution is just that . . . it can never really be a home."

By the end of the first year, Madonna Day Treatment project aims to serve about 20 persons a week, with room for expansion in the future, Sister Phyllis said. The length of time they spend at the center will vary, depending on their evaluation.

Sister Phyllis will conduct pre-admission evaluations to be sure the individual and program are well matched. After two or three weeks, an evaluation team, including the participant, will review and make any needed revisions in the program.

Re-evaluations will take place at regular intervals.

UNL Grad Hired

Cferyl Schrepf, a UNL graduate, has been hired to supervise the program, Sister Phyllis said. Ms. Schrepf has a masters degree in social work with emphasis on geratology, the study of aging.

After six to eight months, Madonna plans to help other community agencies develop their own day treatment programs.

Kissinger, Ehrlichman Sought Profile

Washington (UPI) — The CIA's chief psychiatrist testified at John D. Ehrlichman's conspiracy trial Friday. He was informed that Henry A. Kissinger and Ehrlichman had ordered a psychiatric profile of Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

Dr. Bernard Malloy said David R. Young Jr., then co-director of the White House "Plumbers," informed him Aug. 12, 1971, that Kissinger and Ehrlichman, then President Nixon's top national security and domestic advisers respectively, had made the request.

The defense took over after the prosecution rested its case in the seven-day trial and U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell ordered that Kissinger, now in Europe, "hold himself in readiness" for possible testimony as a defense witness.

Malloy said that despite the fact the CIA previously had never made a profile of an American citizen, except once when one was held by a foreign power, the agency proceeded to make a second profile.

About three weeks after that conversation, the Plumbers entered the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist in a fruitless search for his medical records.

Gesell rejected a second attempt by William S. Frates, Ehrlichman's chief lawyer, to send Nixon a list of written questions as part of his defense.

"They must be directed only to essential issues in the case that cannot be established by any other available means," Gesell said. "If you cannot comply with the instructions I have given you, there will be no interrogatories."

Gesell, noting that interrogatories had been addressed to a president only two or three times in the nation's history, said the proposed questions asked if Nixon knew who Ehrlichman was, what his White House duties were "and things wholly inappropriate to address to the President."

Frates told reporters he would redraft the questions during the

Ambassador Retires At 59

Bridgetown, Barbados (AP) — The United States ambassador to Barbados, Eileen Donovan, one of the highest ranking women in the Foreign Service, announced she is retiring and returning to the United States.

In Washington, State Department sources said Miss Donovan, 59, plans to retire before the end of the month.

weekend. He said he had submitted about 20 initially. It was not known what Nixon's response to court-ordered interrogatories would be, although Frates said the White House staff was resisting.

Former Assistant Labor Secretary Arthur Fletcher, a black who knew Ehrlichman in Washington State, testified that his "truth and veracity" were good. Frates said he would call two more character witnesses Monday before placing Ehrlichman on the stand.

Frates told reporters he was not certain about calling Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen, head of the Justice Department's criminal division, after Gesell's implied criticism of the move.

In court, Frates said Petersen would testify that Nixon had instructed Ehrlichman the work of the Plumbers dealt with national security and no one was to answer questions about it.

"If those orders were given, those were illegal orders and I will instruct the jury," Gesell said, adding that Petersen's testimony could greatly lengthen the trial, which the judge has said would end next week.

Frates contended, however, that Petersen's testimony would show that Ehrlichman had told other members of the Plumbers not to answer questions about the Ellsberg break-in, not because of "consciousness of guilt," as the prosecution has claimed, but because of high orders.

Governor Doubts Session Needed

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The likelihood of a special session of the Legislature to work out a new funding formula for the state's technical community colleges lessened Friday.

Gov. J. James Exon released an attorney general's opinion which apparently clears the way for stop-gap financing of the colleges through March until the 1975 Unicameral has had time to devise a new method.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Harold Mosher told Exon that a recent State Supreme Court ruling did not invalidate roughly $10 million in state funds appropriated for the colleges' 1974-75 school year. Nor, he said, does state law require the state to apportion the money out in specific amounts on certain dates.

The opinion would thus allow the state to distribute the $10 million at an accelerated rate early in the school year to make up for $6 million in property tax support outlawed by the court.

The Legislature and Exon in January could make a deficit appropriation to cover operating costs for the balance of the school year.

Based on that opinion, Exon said he has tentatively decided not to call a special session despite pressure from some senators for a special session.

Exon said a final determination will have to await a meeting with college leaders to discuss the funding problems raised by the court. That meeting, he said, will occur at 10 a.m. next Wednesday, and not Monday as earlier reported, in Exon's hearing room.

A unanimous Supreme Court knocked down the one mill property tax levied by each of the six college areas as an unconstitutional violation of a ban on any state property tax. Budget and administrative controls at the state level made the colleges ineligible for local property tax support.

Exon said he has "pretty much assumed" that the ruling means the state will have to refund to taxpayers roughly $6 million in property taxes collected for the 1973-74 school year for the support of the state system.

Exon said he has made no decision as to how the colleges' funding formula should be changed to comply with the ruling.

"I hope we can make some change in the law where we can keep local control of the colleges," he said. Possibilities being discussed, he said, include altering the state board and budget procedures.

Exon said the state will proceed with its first quarter payment to the colleges almost immediately. The payment, due July 1, was held up pending the opinion. Exon said October and January quarterly payments will be greater than normal to compensate for lost property taxes.

He said he anticipates no cash flow problems with the accelerated payments, since cash flow problems traditionally occur in the first half of the calendar year.

Exon said he did not request an opinion on the legality of similar financing arrangements involving other state systems, such as the courts.

If proponents of a special session can garner 33 of the 49 senators to support their proposal, a special session could be called. Exon said he was writing each senator on the matter and advising them of the opinion.

Youth-in-Action Trio Stays In Tune With Music

By PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

If the Turpin sisters ever disagree it's sure to be a discord in harmony.

For the three young daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Turpin, 801 S. 35, are very much in tune with music, if not always with each other.

While other teens compete with their siblings for the best spot in front of the TV, Muffi, 13, Jenni, 12, and Jana Rae, 9, tussle for their turns in the music room, an instrument-filled area in the front part of their home.

"The first one in there gets the room alone," Jenni announced — "unless she wants someone else to play with her."

But the first one in can sometimes be outwitted into relinquishing her place. Jenni was quick to point out.

Like the time she lured Muffi away from the piano with a fake phone call, so Jenni could slip into her place at the keyboard.

Or the time Jenni tried to disconnect the wires of the amplifier when Muffi was practicing her electric guitar by prodding the plug with a clothes hanger. "You should have seen the sparks fly!" Jenni exclaimed.

But when the trio gets together they can really turn out the tunes.

The shaggy-haired, look-alike, bespectacled sisters began their musical career back in Ponca where they joined with neighborhood children beating on pots and tubs in what was dubbed the Poverty Hill Band.

Jenni soon graduated from a wash basin to a secondhand set of drums, while Muffi and Jana Rae practiced their strumming on green stamp-purchased guitars. Other used instruments were picked up along the way, with their dad making repairs when necessary. "That's part of why we're called the Poverty Hill Band," Jana Rae confided.

When the Turpin family moved to Lincoln a year and a half ago, the girls continued picking up popular rock tunes from the radio and records. All play by ear and sing as well.

A highlight this year for the musical three was winning a spot on ETV's new children's program "Wet Paint."

"Dad always got in the way of the cameraman," Jenni giggled, describing how her father swung his arms around to make his girls laugh and pep them up during the taping.

A member of a band himself, Turpin coaches his daughters on polishing up their act.

Jana Rae, the youngest, said that her dad "likes me to sing all the songs — like Donny Osmond does."

Unspoiled by this season's stint on TV, the young musicians long-range goal doesn't include looking for fame. "We just want to be known in Lincoln and little towns around," assured Muffi. Jana Rae affirmed that she doesn't "want to be famous and move away from all my friends."

Do the girls get nervous when performing in Show Wagon competitions or before groups?

"No!" declared Muffi, confiding their secret for keeping the butterflies away. "We think of everyone in their underwear and it makes us smile."

Russian Docking Unit 'Functions Accurately'

MOSCOW (AP) — Two cosmonauts coupled their capsule to an orbiting laboratory some 170 miles above the earth Friday in the first successful Russian space docking in three years, Tass said.

Mission director Alexei Yeliseyev said the vehicles' new docking unit, a critical factor for next year's Soviet-American space venture, "functioned accurately."

Yeliseyev said: "We have no doubt about its reliability."

The last time the Soviets docked in space was in June 1971, when three cosmonauts spent 23 days in the Salyut 1 space station, then perished when a valve on their Soyuz 11 craft failed as they tried to return to earth.

Since then, Russian space experts have been trying to perfect the Soyuz-Salyut systems and build a reliable docking unit. An April 1973, attempt to establish a second working space lab was scrapped after the unmanned Salyut 2 station broke up in orbit.

Early Friday morning Col. Pavel Popovich and flight engineer Lt. Col. Yuri Artyukhin flew Soyuz 14 with its "improved on-board systems" to within 100 yards of the Salyut 3 space station, the government news agency Tass reported. They took over from the automatic controls, "smoothly achieving ... a soft link-up," Tass added.

Less than 33 hours after they lifted off from the Baikonur launch pad in central Asia on Wednesday, Popovich and Artyukhin switched on the Salyut station's lights, checked the life support systems and went to work.

As with past Russian space ventures, the Soviets have not revealed how long Popovich and Artyukhin would remain aloft.

Tass quoted Popovich as exclaiming: "The atmosphere inside here is fine." The space lab is equipped, the agency explained, with "a roomy cosmic accommodation of terrestrial air pressure, normal humidity and usual temperatures."

Yeliseyev declared the two cosmonauts "are working brilliantly, efficiently implementing the flight program and, what is the main thing, are doing it with ease and enthusiastically."

Tass said the cosmonauts, both 43 years old, "feel well."

A Friday afternoon progress report from flight control put the space station in an almost circular orbit 171 miles by 165 miles above the earth. They circle the earth every 89.7 minutes.

The report indicated the lab's flight path had been slightly altered since it was launched June 25.

While aboard Salyut 3, Tass continued, Popovich and Artyukhin will conduct geological-morphological studies of the earth surface, atmospheric experiments "for the solution of economic tasks" and medicobiological research.

Arsenal Of Arms Stolen From Unguarded Armory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An arsenal of weapons including machine guns and grenade launchers was stolen from a National Guard armory in suburban Compton, and some authorities said on Friday that terrorists may have done it. An FBI agent said enough weapons were taken to equip an Army combat company.

"It is very possible it was done by an organization such as the Symbionese Liberation Army," said Compton Police Sgt. John Prandin.

The FBI said it had no indication that the theft was carried out by such a group.

A vault at the unguarded armory south of Los Angeles was broken into some time between Wednesday morning and Thursday night, when the theft was discovered.

Lt. Col. Andrew Wolf, a spokesman for the California

National Guard, said the firing pins and entire bolt assemblies had been removed from the guns before they were placed in the vault. Asked if the thieves could find replacement bolts at a sporting goods shop, Wolfe said, "I think it would be a problem."

Earlier, a Compton policeman had said, "Most of the bigger gun shops stock replacement. It's just like if your car needs a new carburetor, you can go to an auto parts dealer and buy one."

Military authorities listed the stolen weapons and ammunition as: 96 M16 rifles; seven M60 machine guns; eight M79 grenade launchers; one .45-caliber automatic pistol and 15 bayonets; 3,360 rounds of 5.53mm M16 bullets; 1,000 rounds of 7.62mm machine gun bullets; 45 rounds of .45-caliber bullets; 40 grenades; 16 smoke grenades, and 100 riot grenades. They said 75 gas masks also were taken.

FOUR CARS ... lie on their sides in woods in Kansas.

Derailment Injures 50

MELVERN, Kan. (AP) — An Amtrak passenger train bound for Chicago jumped the tracks near this small eastern Kansas town early Friday, sending about 50 passengers and crewmen to hospitals.

Most of the injured were treated for cuts and bruises and released. Most of those remaining in hospitals had broken legs, arms or other fractures. None were in critical condition.

A spokesman for the Santa Fe Railroad, which operated the train, the Southwest Limited from Los Angeles to Chicago, said it was believed a broken rail caused the derailment. The National Transportation Safety Board sent investigators to the scene.

The last 13 cars derailed on the 18-car train, which carried 317 passengers in all. Six of the cars landed on their sides, a railroad spokesman said. Four of the cars tumbled down a steep embankment.

The accident occurred at 5:02 a.m., as most of the passengers slept. "All hell broke loose," said Robert Dawson, 36, of Riverside, Calif., who was in one of the rear sleeping cars with his wife and 3-year-old son. They were treated at a hospital in nearby Ottawa and released.

Dawson, en route to a vacation in Canada, said the car seemed to spin around before it came to rest.

"An upper bunk ladder was next to me. I used it to smash out the window and boosted my wife and son out. I smelled smoke. I was afraid of fire," he said.

Oscar Roberson, a porter from Indianapolis, said he had gone to bed about three hours before the accident.

"When I woke up, the car was rolling. I didn't know what to do. I was trapped. But I finally got the door open and started to check on passengers. I broke a window to try to get some air in the car," said Roberson, who was treated for cuts and bruises.

Among those in the forward cars were 45 Boy Scouts from the State College, Pa., area, who were returning from a hiking trip at Philmont Scout Camp at Cimarron, N.M. They were not injured.

The derailment occurred near a curve about one mile east of Melvern, near where cars carrying propane gas exploded after derailling in August, 1970. Fourteen were injured and three homes and a church were destroyed.

Another freight train derailed near the same spot in December 1972.

The railroad spokesman said the derailed train was traveling about 70 miles an hour, which is within the regulation speed. Another track just north of the torn up line was not damaged and rail traffic was able to keep moving, the spokesman said.

Passengers who were not injured and those who were treated and released at hospitals in Topeka, Ottawa and Emporia were taken to Kansas City by train or bus to continue their trips.

President Ordered Ailment Kept Secret

Miami — President Nixon ordered that the seriousness of his physical ailment be kept secret during his recent trip abroad because he feared public disclosure would interfere with his negotiations with foreign leaders, deputy White House press secretary Gerald L. Warren said Friday.

The President did not want his health problems discussed because he felt it would get in the way of the goals he hoped to achieve on what he considered to be two important trips, Warren said in reply to a reporter's question on why the gravity of Nixon's condition had been kept hidden from the American public.

U.S. Prepared To Assist Italy

ROME (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger gave assurances on Friday that the United States was prepared to assist Italy should its economic situation worsen.

"We are following Italian events with sympathy and affection," he said at a luncheon with President Giovanni Leone. "You can count on the fact that in whatever moment Italy should find itself in difficulty, we will do everything possible to assure it stability and progress."

Kissinger then met with Foreign Minister Aldo Moro. An Italian spokesman said that he held a "general discussion" of the country's economic problems but not about a U.S. loan specifically.

There have been persistent reports that Italy was seeking a large foreign loan to help it out of its worst crisis since World War II. La Stampa of Turin, a leading newspaper, reported discussion of a U.S. loan was the principal item on the agenda for Kissinger's talks here.

Inflation in Italy is running at 20 per cent a year, and the foreign trade deficit, mainly due to imports of oil and meat and other food products, stands at $1 billion a month.

Kissinger was in Rome to continue his briefing of European leaders on President Nixon's talks in Moscow. He is telling them that the United States made no commitment to a 35-nation summit meeting sought by the Soviet Union to wind up the European security conference. Russia has been in favor of such a summit.

Kissinger is calling for an end to the "theological debate" that has stalemated conference negotiations in Geneva. There is no way to move ahead with 25 papers on various contested points "kicking around," the senior U.S. official said.

The Soviets have been promoting the summit as a highly public way of legitimizing their control over Eastern Europe and the post-World War II borders. The West Germans and other Europeans have been reluctant to commit themselves.

Kissinger discussed the security conference in Paris over breakfast with French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing. They also talked about Europe's energy problems, the Middle East and transatlantic relations.

America Recalls Envoy To Turkey

WASHINGTON (AP) — As evidence of its disappointment and anger over the Turkish decision to allow opium growing, the United States has recalled William B. Macomber Jr., the American ambassador to Ankara.

The diplomat is expected to return over the weekend and will report to Joseph J. Sisco, the acting secretary of state, on Monday, officials said.

On July 1, Turkey lifted the three-year-old ban on the cultivation of opium poppy, in the past the primary source of illegal heroin smuggled into the United States.

After considerable prodding from the United States, Turkey agreed in June 1971 to eliminate the production of opium poppy which then accounted for about two-thirds of the illegal heroin which reached the United States.

In 1968, opium was produced in 42 Turkish provinces, but this number was scaled down to four by 1971.

Turkish farmers had been growing poppies, the raw material for heroin, for more than 400 years. Until 1971, it was a legitimate crop producing edible oil and seed in addition to drugs.

In 1970, the last year when production of poppies was legal, Turkey produced about 120 tons of opium for the legitimate pharmaceutical industry. According to intelligence estimates, about the same quantity was produced illegally, reaching secret heroin workshops in the vicinity of Marseilles, France, before being smuggled into the United States.

Street War Subsides

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A street war in Bangkok's Chinatown subsided early Saturday after reinforced police units in battle gear chased young gunmen through the streets and made dozens of arrests.

The official death toll in three nights of violence neared 30 and 135 persons were reported wounded.

Police said about 100 persons were arrested before the skirmishes tapered off after midnight.

Premier Sanya Thammasak, who blamed the spasm of rioting on Chinese motorcycle gangs, earlier took a get-tough stance unprecedented in his nine-month old administration and told all Thailand's military forces to be ready to intervene if necessary.

Sanya met earlier with his cabinet and King Bhumibol Adulyadej.

Court: Compensation Act Covers Lunchroom Injury

By The Associated Press
If you are injured while eating lunch in a cafeteria maintained by your employer, you are entitled to relief under the Workmen's Compensation Act, the Nebraska Supreme Court held Friday.

The court noted that the decision in favor of Leona Thomsen of Omaha was the first of its kind in Nebraska, but also said the questions raised "have been determined in many cases from other jurisdictions."

Writing for a unanimous Supreme Court, Chief Justice Paul White said that when an employee is injured in a lunch room maintained and controlled by his employer during his lunch hour, the injury will be construed as "arising out of and in the course of" his employment.

The Thomsen woman sustained a broken hip on Nov. 30, 1971 in the lunch room of Sears Roebuck & Co. where she was employed.

The court noted she was not required to punch the time clock at the lunch break, and that the company encouraged employees to use the cafeteria.

The court's decision reversed the Douglas County District Court. A one-judge Workmen's Compensation Court had ruled in favor of Mrs. Thomsen, a divided three-judge court reversed and dismissed the case. The district court had affirmed the dismissal.

Court Orders Land Transfer To New School District

By The Associated Press
Saying that its decision was based on the best interests of the pupils involved, a divided Nebraska Supreme Court Friday ordered that an 80-acre tract of land be transferred from the McCool School District to the Henderson School District in York County.

The court split 4-3 on the decision, which reversed an order by the York County District Court that had disallowed the transfer.

The case stemmed from an order by a board, consisting of the York County superintendent, the county clerk and the treasurer, that the land be transferred.

The board acted in response to a freeholder's petition filed by Walter A. Friesen. The board's decision was appealed to the district court by Regina D. Clark. Writing for the majority, Judge Donald Brodkey said, "The only issue involved in this appeal is whether or not there was sufficient showing . . . that the transfer would be in the best educative interest . . . of the students affected."

Chief Justice Paul White dissented from the majority. He was joined by Judges John E. Newton and Lawrence M. Clinton.

The dissenters said "Contentions regarding the better quality of education to be had in the Henderson School District are inconclusive and are offset by advantages at the McCool Junction Public School. The evidence affirmatively shows that the two school districts are functionally equivalent, and there is no sufficient educational reason why the transfer of land should be granted here."

In other decision, the high court:

— Affirmed a Lancaster County District Court decision that denied Claud Hall damages arising from the sale of land to the City of Lincoln. The court ruled an action for damages against a political subdivision for misrepresentation and deceit is barred by the Political Subdivision Tort Claims Act. Judge Lawrence M. Clinton dissented in part and concurred in part.

— Reversed and remanded a decision from Douglas County District Court and ordered an evidentiary hearing for Robert Elliott, convicted of assault with intent to rob and using a firearm in the commission of an assault with intent to rob.

— Upheld a second degree murder conviction of Rudolph W. Klatt, sentenced to life imprisonment from district court in Custer County.

— Affirmed a Madison County case involving recovery of an automobile in a suit filed by Willis Kuchar against Harry Bernstrauch.

— Reversed a decision from Douglas County District Court and ordered a new trial for a charge of robbery "forcibly and with violence." The court found the evidence insufficient to support the conviction.

— Reversed a decision from Douglas County District Court involving the setting of an estate; the case involved L. G. Harrison as administrator and James E. Grizzard.

— Upheld the conviction of Billy Torrence of Omaha, who was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment for possessing heroin with the intent of selling it.

The unanimous decision upheld a Douglas County District Court verdict.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Saturday

Taurus and Aquarius persons are very responsive to my statements about them in columns, on radio or television. For some reason, these are the natives most evident when the mail is poured, when the count is taken and when statistics are examined — at least where my writings and ascertainties are concerned.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent is on full fulfillment, romantic encounters, hopes, desires and gain through professional-career endeavors. You make discoveries. You come alive. You are stimulated. You are energized. You are restored. Don't downgrade yourself. Permit creative juices to flow!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Follow through on what is happening. Don't let cover truth with rationalizations. Elevate standing in community. Stand tall. Put reputation on line for beliefs. You will be vindicated. Aquarian figures in important way.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Good lunar aspect now coincides with added knowledge, travel, philosophy, a coming to terms with yourself. Give full play to intellectual curiosity. Social activity is accelerated. You will be busier, happier.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): You may be "locked in" emotionally. Know and do something about it. Means find outlet. Refuse to be put in position where frustration dominates.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): Question of double harness is activated. If single, you no longer can ignore marriage possibilities. If married, cessation of partnership could come. Money and investments; he and tax shelters are very much in consideration.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Health is something that must not be left to chance or luck. Cycle now dictates that you check, have examinations, keep medical records. Means game-playing is over; you arrive at conclusions. Key is to be aware of potential of security, of family relationships and obligations.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You learn lessons about your own emotions. You find that you can create, retreat, advance, make concessions and "take charge." This is a period when you run the gamut of emotions. Social, Virgo individuals figure in key ways.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Spotlight is on how you react to "crunch" situations. Means game-playing is over; you arrive at conclusions. Key is to be aware of potential of security, of family relationships and obligations.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Emphasis is on short trips, ideas, curiosity that has to be satisfied. Ask questions. Retire the superficial. Give full play to intellectual curiosity. Show that you are alive, not a zombie who responds to string being pulled.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Accent is on money, personal possessions, special collections. Protect valuables. Retire the superficial. Give full play to intellectual curiosity. Show that you are alive, not a zombie who responds to string being pulled.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Pieces fall into place. You are able to read patterns to personal advantage. Judgment, intuition are on target. You gain through personal appearance, participation. Wear bright colors. Be available and conspicuous.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Fears tend to evaporate. What was doubt is replaced by inner confidence. Socialize. Go to people. Go things and go places. Shove aside inferiority complex. Visit one confined to home, hospital — and have gift of high health.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have fine voice, love sweets, are diplomatic, draw to you Taurus and Libra persons. August should be your most important month of 1974. You are loyal to family, often intimidated by persons who claim to know all answers. You are affectionate, a sucker for a sob story but you also know the meaning of money. You appreciate art and could be a collector.

Life Begins At Forty:

Women Now Less Reluctant To Tell Age

By ROBERT PETERSON
Women are less reluctant to give their age now than formerly. My mother who is 85 says that when she was young, folks felt that a woman who would tell her age would tell anything. She says she was extremely touchy herself about age until an infusion of good sense a few years ago taught her to be proud of this vital statistic.

Official confirmation of the change in attitude comes from the publishers of "Who's Who." Back at the turn of the century more than one-third of the women listed in this prestigious publication refused to divulge their ages.

But the publishers say that in their current edition, only about five per cent of the thousands of important women listed have withheld their birth dates.

Some women, and some men, too, are still strangely sensitive about age. They know they should be proud of this vital statistic. They know there is nothing improper, immoral, or unnatural about age. But they'd rather not talk about it.

Who's to blame for this immature attitude? Some blame the hucksters. Start watching the ads and you'll notice how copywriters have seized on our admiration for youth as a marketing approach calculated to spur sales of just about everything from automobiles to zippers.

A breakfast food promises to give us "Youthful energy." A soft drink shouts, "For Folks Who Think Young." An airline says its passengers are "Young-minded." A famous brand of orange juice gives, "The Vitality of Childhood." And fashions for mature women are marketed under the flummery label, "Forever Young."

When we are reminded day after day of the importance of looking, acting, and thinking young, some folks come quite naturally to the conclusion that growing old must be a dreadful and shameful thing to be avoided at all costs. But those who see age as an asset of greater inherent worth than youth will stop concealing their age and pretending they're younger than they really are. They'll feel such gratitude for having reached whatever age with which they're blessed that they'll wear their years as a badge of honor.

Jack Benny has quipped, "You're only young once, but if you work it right once is enough." He's right.

Meet Star Carrier Paul Inselman

"Paul is an exceptionally efficient carrier who knows the importance of early deliveries, timely collections and promptness in contacting potential new customers," says route supervisor Bill Larson.

Described by his customers as the best paper boy they've ever had, Paul Inselman says the route has given him a chance to assume responsibility and has taught him to use his money wisely. His route profits have enabled him to launch another successful business venture — he buys old bicycles and sells them after repairing them.

Paul has also been able to apply his mechanical talents to a number of creative art projects. His wire sculpture of four cowboys and a wooden saloon was exhibited at the Public Schools Administration building and attracted a purchase offer of $25.

A Jehovah's Witness, Paul gives regular talks at the Theocratic Ministry School and participated in staging a Bible drama in the Astro dome at Houston, Texas, as part of the Divine Victory Assembly last year.

Paul is a student at Goodrich Junior High School in Lincoln and plans to attend the University of Nebraska some day.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Inselman, feel that route work is good for all young men and stress that it has given their son a sense of accomplishment as well as teaching him to meet people and the importance of budgeting both time and money.

The Hawk In China

As President Nixon was winding up his summit meeting in Moscow with Soviet leaders, a sub-summit meeting was beginning in Peking. Sen. Henry M. "Scoop" Jackson of Washington, a Democratic presidential hopeful, was talking with high-level Chinese leaders.

The Soviet Union is Sen. Jackson's bitterest enemy. As one of the most powerful members of the U.S. Senate and one of the Pentagon's most influential friends, he stands as the leading national figure skeptical of American-Soviet detente. And who is the Peoples Republic of China's bitterest enemy? The Soviet Union, of course.

What mischief might have been conducted behind closed doors in Peking as Jackson and the Chinese talked is anybody's guess.

But if his visit to China influences Jackson to take an even harder line against the Soviet Union than is the case at present, it could deal a crippling blow to a presidential bid that already shows signs of faltering.

Jackson is at the moment the hardest working candidate, officially declared or not, for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976. He has been speaking out on the most important issues of the day and has been right on most of them, but he doesn't seem to be catching on. Of course, it is early yet.

The latest Harris poll shows Sen. Edward Kennedy and Gov. George Wallace each increasing their support among Democrats. It is more than a possibility, however that both — as popular as they may be among some Democrats, they are distinctly unpopular among a great many others — will be denied a place on the national Democratic ticket in 1976 and the door will be open for others.

Jackson is a natural for a frontrunner's role with his expert's reputation in energy, environmental and military affairs. Yet the same poll shows Jackson's popularity slipping from what it was in March of this year.

It may be that he has misjudged the mood of the American people and his cold war-like posture will cost him the loss of support of many who see the merits of expanding and friendly relations between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R.

If he is seen as a potential president who would take the side of one of the antagonists, emerging China, against the other superpower, the Soviet Union, he could as well be seen as a dangerous president.

Jackson will have to clarify and moderate his foreign policy views if he is to become a credible candidate.

A Glorious Fourth

It was a glorious Fourth of July. En masse or in family gatherings, Nebraskans across the state celebrated Independence Day.

Not everybody, of course. We made a short visit to some farm friends in Seward County Thursday morning. It has been dangerously dry and the moisture the skies have not given us has to come from somewhere. The irrigation pump, broken, had just been repaired and having soaked one part of a field of corn, our farmer friend had to move pipe to the next. No time for fun and games. We imagine thousands of rural Nebraskans had similar problems this week and Thursday was no holiday for them.

But thousands gathered in such places as Seward, Nebraska's "Fourth of July City," where townspeople planned festivities such as a parade, band concert, an old time Chautauqua show, a hot-air balloon ascension and an ice cream social, and a host of other events.

And at Lincoln, where thousands picnicked, boated, swam and watched the fireworks display at Holmes Park. We saw block parties and children's parades in town, while other families simply enjoyed the Fourth in their own homes or back yards.

It was a perfect day for a holiday: mild and sunny with a slight breeze. The evening was incomparable: calm, cool, with a cloudless sky, a full moon and seemingly every star in the firmament glittering.

We hope people took a little time to contemplate the meaning of the holiday. And while we're certain that almost everybody was glad it didn't rain on anybody's parade, we hope nature makes up for it — and soon!

"Then we get another delay, then you go abroad again, then the foreign leaders return those visits — that takes us up to the bicentennial —"

KINGSBURY SMITH

Visit 'Unforgettable'

MOSCOW — Tass, the official Soviet news agency, has issued a statement saying that the press commentators were "unanimous" in their opinion that the results of the third summit "will give new impulsion to developments between the USSR and the U.S.A. and will serve the cause of reinforcing general peace."

Indicative of how pleased the Soviet government and people were with President Nixon's visit to Minsk, Tass said it had created an "unforgettable" impression.

It was obvious to all that the President was deeply moved by his visit to the war memorials in Minsk, one of the "hero cities" of the Soviet Union for its resistance during World War II. It was one of the first big Russian cities to be invaded and it became, along with the rest of Byelorussia, the center of particidal guerrilla warfare against the Germans.

The Soviet press quoted the President, who said, "The best way to celebrate a day which marks the ending of a war is to build peace. The greatest and best memorial that we can build to the one-fourth of all the citizens of this (Byelorussian) republic who were killed in World War II is to build a structure of peace so that their children and grandchildren will not die in another war."

The Moscow press did not, however, publish the remark of an elderly woman, Maria Osipova, with whom he spoke at the Khatyn Memorial on the outskirts of Minsk.

Wearing a medal designating her as a hero of the Soviet Union for her underground activities in Byelorussia during the war, Mrs. Osipova, grandmother of 10, said: "We love you, Mr. President, all of us."

Following his television appearance, the President and Mrs. Nixon gave a dinner at the U.S. embassy in honor of the Soviet leaders, some of whom, including Brezhnev, were accompanied by their wives.

At the invitation of President Nixon, American pianist Eugene List was the guest performer at the dinner at Spaso House, the residence of the U.S. ambassador. More than 100 Soviet and U.S. guests were invited, including this correspondent.

Mr. List, presently head of the piano department of the Eastman School of Music of Rochester University, has performed on every continent and in all 50 U.S. states during his 40-year musical career.

His program included Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in G Sharp Minor," three of Shostakovich's Preludes, three of Gershwin's Preludes, and two pieces by U.S. composer Louis Gottschalk.

They Had A Dream

The Cannonball was 95 minutes late when it pulled out of the Memphis station on the run to Canton, Miss.

It was a murky night, and the headlight of engine No. 362 cast weird shadows as the crack passenger train moved slowly through the city's outskirts and onto the main line.

The engineer had orders to make up the time, and he ran the 100 miles to Grenada, Miss., with wide-open throttle.

Ahead of him were 88 miles more of flat Mississippi delta country, and the train now was only 35 minutes behind schedule.

Thundering through darkness at about 70 m.p.h., the Cannonball drew near to the tiny town of Vaughan — and then it happened with frightening speed.

Rounding a curve, the engineer saw the caboose of a freight train looming through the darkness on the main line. He knew he could never stop in time. The fireman leaped to safety, but the engineer stayed at his post, braked the train and was killed in the splintering collision.

No one else was seriously hurt.

It was the kind of accident which was a fairly common occurrence in those days, and that wreck on April 30, 1900, soon would have been forgotten.

But a humble engine wiper in the Canton roundhouse turned that train wreck into an American legend and made an epic hero of the engineer. Wallace "Wash" Saunders did it with a song:

"Come all you rounders for I want you to hear,
The story told of a brave engineer;
"Casey Jones was the rounder's name,
"On a heavy six-eight wheeler he rode to fame."

Saunders was Casey's engine wiper in Canton, and he spoke the truth when he sang: "Casey Jones, I know him well..." He thought Casey was "the best engineer on the Illinois Central line. Jones' wife said Saunders, in fact, idolized her husband."

Saunders made up the words of "Casey Jones" and sang them to the melody of another railroad song called "Jimmie Jones." The ballad was both a tribute and a lament to his dead friend.

It swept through the Mississippi and Yazoo deltas where Casey was well known, and in endless variations it crossed the ocean to France, Germany, South Africa.

Casey Jones became a folk hero bigger than life itself. In 1950, his name and likeness were used to adorn a commemorative stamp honoring all railroaders during the era of the iron horse.

Few people, however, ever heard of Wash Saunders who lived and died in Canton. He never made a nickel out of his song. Someone else picked it up and copyrighted it.

That didn't bother Saunders. He was a railroad man, and that was his own reward. As for fame, he felt he already had it, saying once in explanation: "I was 40 years foreman of the railroad shops here."

Red Scissors

NEW YORK — Censorship can be both chilling and ludicrous.

Years ago, an American correspondent in Moscow was called down to the censor's office in the Telegraph Office on Gorky Street. It was dead of night. A sentence in the reporter's story had come under heavy suspicion and an explanation was demanded — under pain of having his credentials picked up and told to leave the country.

The sentence read, "I stood within a stone's throw of Josef Stalin today at the May Day Parade."

"So what's wrong with that?" the writer asked. "Why did you bring a stone to the parade?" the censor demanded.

"I didn't bring a stone to the parade," the man argued. "It's an expression. It means that I was standing close to Stalin."

There was a long impasse which the censor finally unblocked. The basic sentence would be sent as written, he ruled, provided it was amended to read, "I stood within a stone's throw of Josef Stalin today at the May Day Parade, but didn't throw it."

I got called in once for trying to compliment the manner of Nikita Khrushchev. My story described him thusly: "As comfortable as an old shoe."

"Are you trying to insinuate that Comrade Khrushchev wears old shoes?" the numbskull demanded, obviously of the opinion that I was insulting the Russian standard of living.

"Would you consider changing this line voluntarily so that it would read, 'As comfortable as a new shoe.'"

I said that readers in the U.S. would laugh at that: New shoes are not as comfortable as old shoes.

He wouldn't buy it, so we struck one of the early ententes between the two great nuclear powers and it came out, "As comfortable as a shoe." Which meant that Khrushchev usually went around barefooted, I guess.

Russian censors will pass almost anything that reads like a compliment to Soviet technology and a downgrading of America's. I happened to be there with the Hearst Task Force when the Soviet automobile monopoly introduced the Volga, a compact that seemed to draw its inspiration from our old Henry J.

Each Volga came in two shades. In writing about it, I said something to the effect that the American car-makers must be a pretty stupid lot, never to have thought of using more than one color on our cars. The censor must have heartily agreed. He sent it right on.

ANTHONY LEWIS

Long Live The King

NEW YORK — "When in the Course of human Events..." Jefferson commenced the reading of the draft-Declaration.

Hutchinson said all could agree with the general sentiments expressed, and he congratulated the gentleman from Virginia on his phrases, but the question before this Continental Congress was necessarily one of specifics.

Jefferson referred to the Facts enumerated in the Declaration. The King had obstructed the Administration of Justice affected to render the military independent of the civil power, imposed taxes on us without our consent and refused his assent to laws account for his wrongs, we risk the stability of institutions. Our concern should be not for the monarch but for the monarchy.

Similar sentiments were expressed by Wiggins. The country's business was in a parlous state and it would be foolhardy to risk radical political measures.

Barry said the Congress should never have allowed itself to be pushed to this point. The King had done nothing that other kings had not done before him. The press had exaggerated — had maligned the King's character. Indeed, the press was the villain of the peace. It was rank with prejudice.

THE FOUNDERING FATHERS

most wholesome and necessary for the public good. There had been a long Train of Abuses and Usurpations.

The enumeration smacked too much of Policy, Rhodes thought. These were actions on which statesmen might differ. A tax on tea, a few troops quartered here or there, and obstruction of justice: What did such things really matter? The King might have been wiser to adopt other policies, but mistakes were not ground for grave retribution.

Dennis agreed. Where were the crimes? He asked. His people had no stomach for regicide and they would not want him to break with the King unless there were unanswerable proof of some awful crime.

J. Adams said the gentleman asked for proof but closed his eyes to what all others could see. Did he expect a confession? This King had trampled on the legal rights of thousands; his ministers had brazenly admitted it, and his own words were spread on the record. On such overwhelming evidence, the ordinary citizen would long since have been indicted and jailed. Was the King to face no accounting?

Loti thought there was more emotion than reason in such arguments. A King was not like other men. If we called him to

Dr. Franklin expressed astonishment at what he had heard. Could any reasonable man really defend this King, or pretend that the case against him was partisan or biased?

This view was supported by Hancock. The press that had criticized the King lately included some that had been his faithful adherents. The great Tribune had called for an end to his reign. Hearst said he had been "convicted by his own words."

General St. Clair advised against hasty action. The evidence was not as it seemed. Time should be allowed to consider the King's arguments. There was no special significance in today's date, July 4, 1776; why rush to a decision that might be regretted later?

Several delegates moved to table the Declaration. Jefferson expostulated. Rhodes offered a substitute incorporating some of the language of the original draft:

"Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes. We therefore petition His Majesty, in the most humble terms, to respect our unalienable Rights and restore peace and commerce with His Colonies."

I read with interest The Star editorial, "No End to Critics," in the Friday, June 28th, edition. Especially did I appreciate the viewpoint that in these times of stress, good news helps people to keep their sanity. But isn't it evident that in this world, what is good news to one is often bad news to another? And, sad to say, the expression sometimes used in jest, "That's the good news; now for the bad news," is all too real in life.

Historically the phrase, "good news," has long been associated in a special way with the gospel or "evangel" of Christianity. From this standpoint I felt perhaps readers might find the comments of John M. Yasko, a former Lincolnite who has returned to bring the Watchtower Convention to Pershing Auditorium July 11-14, to be of interest. Interviewed at convention headquarters at 3700 Vine, Mr. Yasko said:

"There really is good news for all mankind that has no bad news along with it for lovers of righteousness. It is good news for such persons irrespective of their race, color or background."

"Briefly, that good news is this: God has arranged for a special government to take care of this earth's problems. It will rule exclusively and undisturbed for a thousand years. During that time it will erase everything that has ever given rise to bad news."

"Today people are asking, 'Why merely keep talking about "good news"? Why hasn't God already brought real peace and happiness to the earth?' Jehovah's Witnesses answer, because God respects the intelligence and moral freedom He has given men — the right to decide which way we want to go — whether to submit to God's sovereignty or to choose man-rule. God has let men try every conceivable form of government, and by now sensible men have found out that they will never be able to solve their problems by their own devices. The corruption which runs through American society today is a case in point. God has allowed mankind sufficient time to lay a strong foundation for faith in His Messianic government."

"Now the good news that the time is at hand for that government to take full charge is being given its widest proclamation ever, in 208 lands in the earth, even in countries under communist domination. This service is rendered by many volunteer workers — young and old, men and women — willingly, zealously telling the people this good news of Christ's kingly activity."

"It is true that there is still great indifference on the part of the majority of the people, including those of Christendom. But since the good news involves the truth about God's sovereignty, it is yet to become a far bigger issue."

"The good news about the established kingdom of God and its deliverance of mankind in this generation is most essential and is being heard. But God is going to force the nations to take a definite position. Of course all the nations desire their own national sovereignty."

"But the proclaimers of the good news stand for God's sovereignty."

"This work of proclaiming the good news of the Kingdom is one of the most important works that has ever been done on earth, because it is the 'touchstone' by which all mankind is judged. Acceptance of and obedience to the good news result in salvation; rejection and disobedience mean destruction."

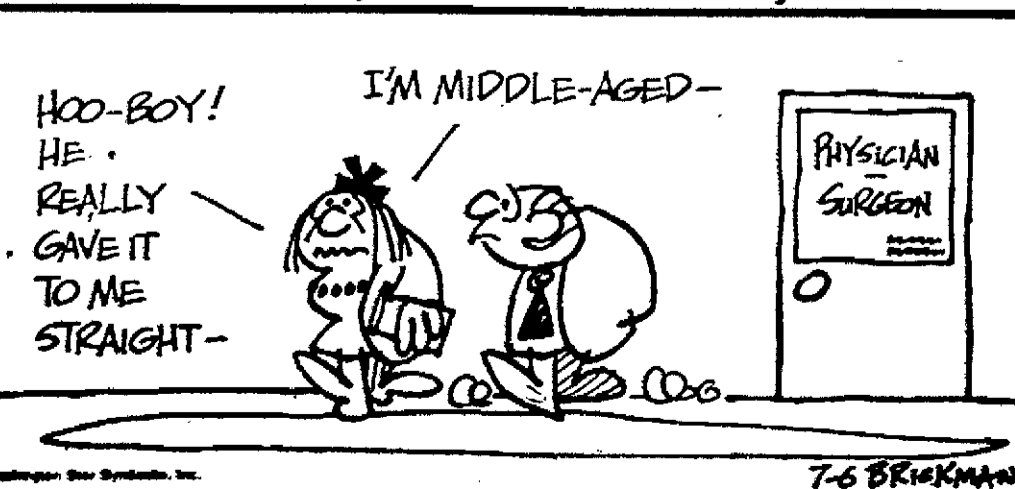

"For example, a person may be very religious. He may even appear to have a fine personality, to be generous, humanitarian. But his reaction to the good news reveals whether he is really a friend of God."

"But the Jews took the attitude toward Jesus that if they let Him alone, let Him keep talking, they would lose their position of prominence in the world. Government leaders today are taking the same position. All nations will act to stop the proclaimers of the only real basic good news, but this opposition to God will trigger their destruction."

As a footnote, I would like to add that it's evident from the Bible record that God wants only people who are Christians through and through to serve Him. He is not interested in quantity, but in merely having a great number of preachers of the good news, but He is drawing out from this irretrievably corrupt system of politics, commerce and false religion those who will clean up.

No Resignation Asked, Says Commission Head

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska Public Service Commission chairman Robert T. Marland said a letter sent Wednesday to Commissioner John Swanson concerning his absence at recent meetings did not make any implicit or explicit suggestion that Swanson resign.

"To suggest now that Commissioner Swanson resign is utterly idiotic," Marland said.

He acknowledged that Commissioner Eric Rasmussen raised the issue of requesting Swanson's resignation if he indicated he would not be attending commission meetings. And Marland agreed that neither he nor Commissioner James Munnelly spoke against Rasmussen's suggestion when they authorized a letter to Swanson on his absence.

"However, the fact that I did not object does not mean that I concurred (with Rasmussen)," he said. The question of resignation is for Swanson to decide, he added.

The letter, he indicated, points to the commission's workload and says it is difficult to go forward without all five commissioners being present.

The letter, he said, says the commission "would appreciate knowing your intentions" and hopes Swanson will help bear his share of the work.

Marland said it asks Swanson to make his intention known.

Swanson, who represents the western part of the state, has not been present for commission business since his defeat in the May 14 primary.

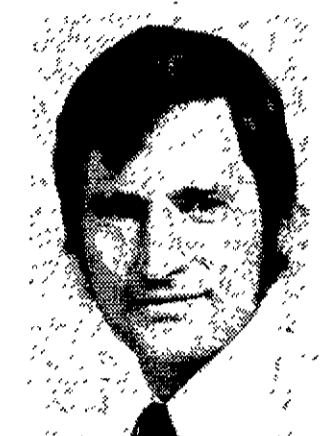

Marland said a news story in The Star reporting that he, Munnelly and Rasmussen would suggest Swanson resign if he does not want to attend further meetings was inaccurate.

UNL Graduate To Teach Farming Skills To Turks

A Nebraska vocational agriculture instructor and native of Bellwood has been selected to spend 14 months in Turkey, teaching agriculture and developing a program which would allow young Turkish farmers to come to the U.S. for agricultural training and experience.

Ken Dolezal, a 1970 graduate of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, will leave for Turkey mid-July after an orientation period in Washington, D.C. Dolezal is involved in the Youth Development Program, under the auspices of the National 4-H Foundation, Washington, D.C., in cooperation with the Turkish Development Foundation and the Ford Foundation.

With Farm background experience in vocational agriculture teaching at Schuyler and Waverly High schools under his belt, Dolezal will be teaching agriculture to young men at a special boarding school at the ancient city of Tarsus. Under the Turkish educational system, this is a middle school, with students

Ken Dolezal

11-15 years old. (Tarsus is in south-central Asiatic Turkey, at the northeast corner of the Mediterranean Sea.)

In addition to his teaching duties, Dolezal, of Butler County, who farmed five years near Bellwood, will be working on a concept similar to the Japanese Young Farmer program, but involving Turkish farmers.

It is hoped by officials that an arrangement could be worked out whereby young Turks could come to the U.S. to work on farms to gain both experience and expense money, then attend specialized educational programs at universities for about three months. They would then return to the farm to complete a two-year stint in the U.S.

Dolezal emphasized that such a program, if successfully developed, would not necessarily involve the University of Nebraska, which has hosted the Japanese Agricultural Training Program.

While in Turkey, Dolezal expects to work with Turkish youth in preparing to operate small farms — "largely a subsistence agriculture" — with emphasis on poultry and dairy in that particular area. Crops include wheat, grass for grazing, fruits and potatoes, in a dryland agriculture. In addition to production, Dolezal expects to work with the Turkish agriculturists in acquiring technology in management and marketing as well.

Five Days Left For Petitioners

The drive to repeal a $160 million state school aid law has five days to get 3,534 more signatures to put the issue before voters in November, Sen. Ramey Whitney of Chappell, head of the drive, said Friday.

Thus far, he said the Committee to Repeal LB772 has collected 19,547 signatures of registered voters from 82 counties; the secretary of state's office reported 23,081 signatures distributed over 38 counties are needed.

In a statement, Whitney said, "We are confident that voters of the (state) will have the opportunity come next November to decide the merits of LB772, provided those holding filled, partially filled and as yet uncirculated petitions return them to us in the next few days."

The law, which was passed over Gov. J. James Exon's veto during the 1974 Legislature, will require a sizeable increase in sales and income tax rates to finance it. The bill shifts some of the costs of local schools from property tax payers to wage earners.

However, Whitney said his research indicates that taxpayers in more than half of the state's school districts will pay nearly as much and in many cases more property taxes after the law goes into effect.

Whitney said the law will result in "confiscatory" levels of taxation.

Body Found By Passing Vacationers

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Police are seeking to identify a woman whose nude body was found in a picnic-camping area Thursday morning by a vacationing Nebraska couple.

Officers said the woman had been shot in the head. She was only believed to have been dead for a few hours before she was found in the small park area on U.S. 66 in northwest Oklahoma City.

John Moseman said he and his wife, visiting in Oklahoma City while en route from Lincoln, Neb., to Virginia, were on the way to see friends in Stillwater when his wife was attracted to the park by red, white and blue streamers left over from a July 4 celebration.

She spotted what appeared to be a woman sleeping on a dirt track among the trees. Moseman said he drove down the track and discovered the body. They went to a motel and alerted the clerk to call police.

Gering Man Drowns In Lake

Scottsbluff (AP) — A Gering man drowned Friday afternoon while swimming at Lake Minatare, about 10 miles northeast of here.

The victim was identified as Chester Franke, 28. Officials said a sailboat operated by Franke's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Slater of Gering, capsized about 100-150 feet from the shore on the eastern side of the lake.

Franke took a three-man inflatable raft, and swam it out to the capsized craft.

Mrs. Slater said her brother then decided to swim back to the beach area, but that he disappeared under the water about 80 feet from shore, after grasping for a buoy.

Divers recovered the body about 90 minutes later.

Mrs. Slater said Franke had stomach problems, and officials said he may have suffered a cramp.

Committee To Ask Funding For Art

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf has created a new committee whose aim is to obtain federal funds so that works of art can be placed on downtown streets.

The group, called the Lincoln Bicentennial Sculptural Committee, will be charged with sprucing up the downtown and any other areas deemed appropriate with sculpture to help celebrate the nation's 200th birthday in 1976.

Schwartzkopf said the committee can "help improve the quality of life" in the city.

He said the committee could specifically concentrate on beautifying 13th, which is being turned into a prestige avenue, if property owners agree. The mayor also named the National Bank of Commerce, the Hilton Hotel and the Federal Office Building — all under construction — as potential sites for works of art.

The mayor said the committee will have to apply for federal funds by July 15th. Any matching funds needed will be solicited from private sources, the mayor said, although he did not rule out the possibility that city funds may be requested.

The mayor named Jack Campbell as chairman of the committee. Others members are Dale Gibbs, Fred Wells, Jo Ann Kimball and Beatrice "Mike" Seacrest.

Beefpacker President Ordered To Sell Marketing Interests

Washington (AP) — Frank R. West, president of American Beefpackers Inc. of Omaha, has been ordered to sell his holdings in a large livestock marketing firm, the Agriculture Department announced Friday.

The firm Farmland Enterprises, Inc., also of Omaha, was suspended from doing business for 30 days beginning July 9. West is president of Farmland and was described as "a major livestock buyer" at Omaha's Union Stockyards.

West also was told to sell his interests in four other firms:

Nebraska Order Buyers Inc., Omaha; F. R. West & Co., Wichita, Kan.; Iowa Order Buyers, Sioux City, Iowa, and Denver Order Buyers, Inc., Denver.

The department's Packers and Stockyards Administration said West will be allowed to retain ownership and management interests in American Beef, which officials said was the second largest beef-slaughtering firm.

It has plants in Omaha; Fort Morgan, Colo.; and in Council Bluffs, Harlan and Oakland in Iowa.

Officials said West and the two companies he heads — Farmland and American Beef — consented to the federal order. It stemmed from a complaint filed by the agency in November 1972.

The department said the complaint charged West and the companies with "manipulating livestock prices, violating fair trade practices, conflict of interest, and recordkeeping requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act."

Officials emphasized, however, that in consenting to the order West and the two firms "neither admitted nor denied the charges" filed against them nearly two years ago.

West and American Beef were told specifically not to engage in a number of practices barred by federal rules, including "discriminatory buying practices" of any type and the issuance of false reports relating to prices paid for livestock.

West also was told that while he is affiliated with any meat-packer he must not "in the connection with the purchase of livestock, knowingly engage in any course of business, or be a party to any arrangement, to manipulate livestock prices."

Crop Duster Walks Away

Overton (UPI) — A crop spraying plane crashed and burned Friday morning three miles north of here, but the pilot walked away unhurt.

Authorities said Charles Watkinson, 28, of Eddyville, was spraying a corn crop when the accident occurred. He had just completed a pass over the field and was attempting to pull up to make a turn when the plane crashed into steep hills surrounding the field.

Board Of Education Budget Considerations Scheduled

The outcome of the petition drive to place the state school aid bill before Nebraska voters in November probably will determine how much of a tax break Lincoln School District property owners get.

But for budget considerations underway, the Lincoln Board of Education when it meets Tuesday might have to outguess the success of the drive to repeal LB772.

The deadline for the petitions is the following day, Wednesday, and it might be late July before the secretary of state's office completes official validation of the signatures.

The board will meet at 8 a.m. in the Public Schools Administration Building, 720 S. 22nd, and will consider budget action relating to LB772, passed by the 1974 Legislature over Gov. J. James Exon's veto.

The bill, supported on record by the school board, shifts the tax burden from the property tax to the state sales and income taxes, and nearly triples state aid by 1976-77.

Supt. John Prasch said Friday if LB772 stands, the board might act to budget a bigger chunk than it had planned from the district's $6.8 million year-ending balance.

Fall school costs would require a $1.31 total mill levy. But Prasch said earlier if the budget already proposed for 1974-75 were adopted, using $1.6 million of the surplus account would keep the present mill levy unchanged at 48.777.

If board of education members decide to dip deeper into the schools' balance, it could mean a tax reduction, and perhaps a significant one.

The board's public hearing on the proposed budget is set for July 18.

In business Tuesday, the board will be asked to approve a 1974-75 salary schedule for administrators, raising their pay by 9.6% overall, plus an addition to their mileage allowance, Prasch said. Negotiations with teachers resulted in 10.3% overall salary boosts. Talks with other employee groups are still underway.

The board will consider a recommendation that the minimum salary for a senior associate teacher be raised from $3,500 to $4,500; and that if an associate wishes to return to regular teaching duties, supervisors must support the request.

The recommendation also allows the Lincoln Education Association ethics committee to supply an opinion if the teacher wishes to have the request reviewed. Teachers may voluntarily apply for senior associate status between ages 55-66, and teach four hours daily while retaining tenure and full fringe benefits.

Board members will also act on a request to approve school bus routes for 1974-75. The board decision will "settle questions about service to areas where folks have requested it," Prasch said, besides the necessity to build any route expansion costs into the budget.

In the related student transportation area, the board will review its current policy and discuss problems related to student field trips and use of private vehicles.

Also on the agenda is a review of plans for junior high intramural and interscholastic sports. The district has arranged a 1974-75 schedule for girls' and boys' intramurals and city competition, and 9th-grade boys' interscholastics.

Girls' intramurals and competitive sports, spanning the school year, include soccer, basketball, field sports, golf, recreational and co-recreational sports, volleyball, basketball, and track and field.

Board members will also be asked to approve changes in the personnel handbook.

Key To The City? No, To The Dump

The City Personnel Department wasn't exactly told where to go Friday, but a former employee made a suggestion — the city dump.

The officials received that hint from an employee who has quit his job and moved to West Virginia. The worker mailed a registered letter to the department (costing $2.35) and enclosed was his key to the city dump on N. 48th.

Personnel Department employees were not quite sure what the key opened out at the dump, but one official said he thought the key fit the lock to a gate which closes off the road.

Apparently the employee forgot to turn in his key when he left town and decided the personnel department was the place to send it.

Incidentally, he also told the city officials he would like his last pay check mailed to him posthaste.

Motions Overruled In Goldsberry Case

Lancaster District Judge William Blue Friday overruled motions by counsel for Mark Goldsberry to suppress statements taken in connection with the death of 15-year-old Wendy Hile.

Goldsberry, 17, is charged with first-degree murder in connection with the death of Miss Hile, who disappeared on Nov. 15, 1973. Her decomposed body was found in a field north of Table Rock in late January.

Goldsberry's attorney, Paul Glatter, had requested that all oral or written statements made by Goldsberry on Feb. 18 to law enforcement officers and the county attorney be suppressed.

At a hearing in May on the motion to suppress, Lincoln police detectives testified that the "Miranda" warnings on constitutional rights were not given Goldsberry until immediately prior to his submitting to a polygraph test.

The defense contended that Goldsberry should have been provided legal counsel prior to any interrogation and that he

It's A Busy Place, But There's

Still Enough Time For Concern

By Linda Olig

During the past five years, the number of persons treated in the emergency room at Lincoln General Hospital has risen 118%.

"Please remember: This is an emergency department where attention is given to the critically ill or injured patient first. It is not a place where people are treated on a first come-first serve basis." — sign posted in Lincoln General Hospital's emergency room.

A young man limped through the ambulance/emergency entrance of Lincoln General Hospital.

Immediately, the clerk asked him his name, address and other vital information — as well as the nature of his injury.

Filling out the form, she showed him to one of the six treatment rooms.

Seemingly on a treadmill, the physician on duty, Dr. Donald Matthews, chairman of the hospital's Department of Emergency Services, left another treatment room and darted into his office.

There, in the room with a desk, a copy of "Gray's Anatomy" lying near-by — available for instant reference — a medications cabinet, a couch and reclining chair, he inspected x-rays of a youngster's leg and ankle.

Matthews wouldn't be able to relax much in the easy chair, not that Saturday evening.

He had been on duty since early that morning, looking after the ailments, injuries, complaints of one patient after another.

"We have no idea what's going to happen when we walk in the morning," he said.

The x-rays surveyed — no broken bones — the doctor unhesitatingly marched into emergency room two, where the lad and his mother were waiting.

Matthews immediately struck up a friendly conversation with the youngster. Winning his confidence, Matthews asked the youngster if he could walk across the floor to his mother. That accomplished, the physician gave the relieved mother instructions for helping her child get through the night in comfort, despite a sore leg.

Returning to the nurses' station, Matthews jotted a few notations on a patient's chart and did an about-face to look after another emergency walk-in patient.

It was to be like that throughout the evening. Looking after a patient, returning to complete the paperwork, checking x-rays making on-the-spot diagnoses and taking the necessary medical procedures.

Each patient waited his or her turn. The most severe injuries or ailments were looked after first. A few patients were moved from one room to another or waited in the hall or waiting room while more serious patients were attended to. No one was turned away. No one complained. Watching the doctor and nurses diligently working away, hustling and bustling between rooms, they understood the atmosphere and responsibility evidenced in the emergency room and its staff.

Meanwhile, the registered nurse, licensed practical nurse and technicians continued to look after additional patients getting to the source of their problems, offering words of concern here and there, escorting patients to x-ray, delivering prescriptions and accompanying the physician into the emergency rooms, watching as he examined patients.

And all of the business was conducted in a friendly, relaxed, yet professional way.

None of the staff persons got rattled as injured and ill persons came in a steady stream.

That they cared for the emergency patients was evident in all they said and did, how they conducted themselves.

"I wish you hadn't done that," Matthews lectured sternly, yet caring, to an elderly man who had injured his toe cutting an ingrown nail.

The emergency room personnel all consider their work "a challenge." They never know what aspect of their training will need to be recalled and applied with the each succeeding case.

Yet, according to Matthews, "There aren't many things we haven't seen." Each person, in turn, echoed his sentiments.

The physician, who has helped staff the hospital's emergency treating center for five years, responds almost reflexively.

Stitches were taken without a second thought.

But he readily recognized his patient's apprehension, telling him what he was about to do each step of the way.

To a little girl, injured while playing, he said, in his soft voice, "I'll tell you how we do it as we go along. . . I won't surprise you with anything." She seemed to relax, making his job all the easier.

Counseling also has its place in the emergency room.

A young woman had attempted suicide, having taken an overdose.

The licensed practical nurse was by her side, listening to her, making sure she would be all right, ensuring she had a way home after the crisis had subsided.

To the hospital emergency room come many minor injuries — cuts, sprains and the like — as well as ailments for which a patient would ordinarily see the family physician.

But the emergency room also "Gets all the bad ones," Matthews pointed out. "A person seriously ill or injured doesn't go to the doctor's office." Emergency room personnel see more than their share of insulin shock, coronaries, automobile and motorcycle accident victims.

And the steady stream of persons seeking help never seemed to end. As soon as one patient had been examined and cared for, there was a new one to take his or her place.

The rooms were filled to capacity when the doctor sneaked away to gulp down a sandwich. He had been on his feet all day. There was no way to tell whether the steady influx of patients would end. He needed his nourishment to get him through the wee hours of the morning to 8 a.m., when another physician would take his place.

Of course, he still was on call, available should a serious injury or sickness appear.

Eating his quick meal, Matthews still was all business.

He is convinced the service he and his fellow emergency room physicians provide "enhances medical care for the community."

It is there, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, always ready to care, to look after a person's medical problems.

And, the fact that the community has become increasingly aware of emergency room services, is evidenced in statistics made available by Lincoln General: During the first six months of 1974, 8,411 persons were treated in the hospital's emergency room.

This figure represents a 118% increase over the 3,864 treatments recorded for the same period in 1969.

"It's hardly ever boring," he added, puffing his pipe and peering over the top of his glasses.

Returning to his station, the doctor once again resumed his rounds.

An anxious parent was waiting with his son who had hurt his hand.

Matthews examined the hand, then told the father, "We will take a picture and make sure everything's all right." Everything was, instantly setting the father's mind at ease.

Many x-rays were taken that night, "just to be sure."

They facilitated instant diagnosis.

There were broken bones to be set, sprains to be wrapped, medical procedures to be completed.

X-rays were especially helpful in extracting a foreign object — a needle — from a young girl's leg.

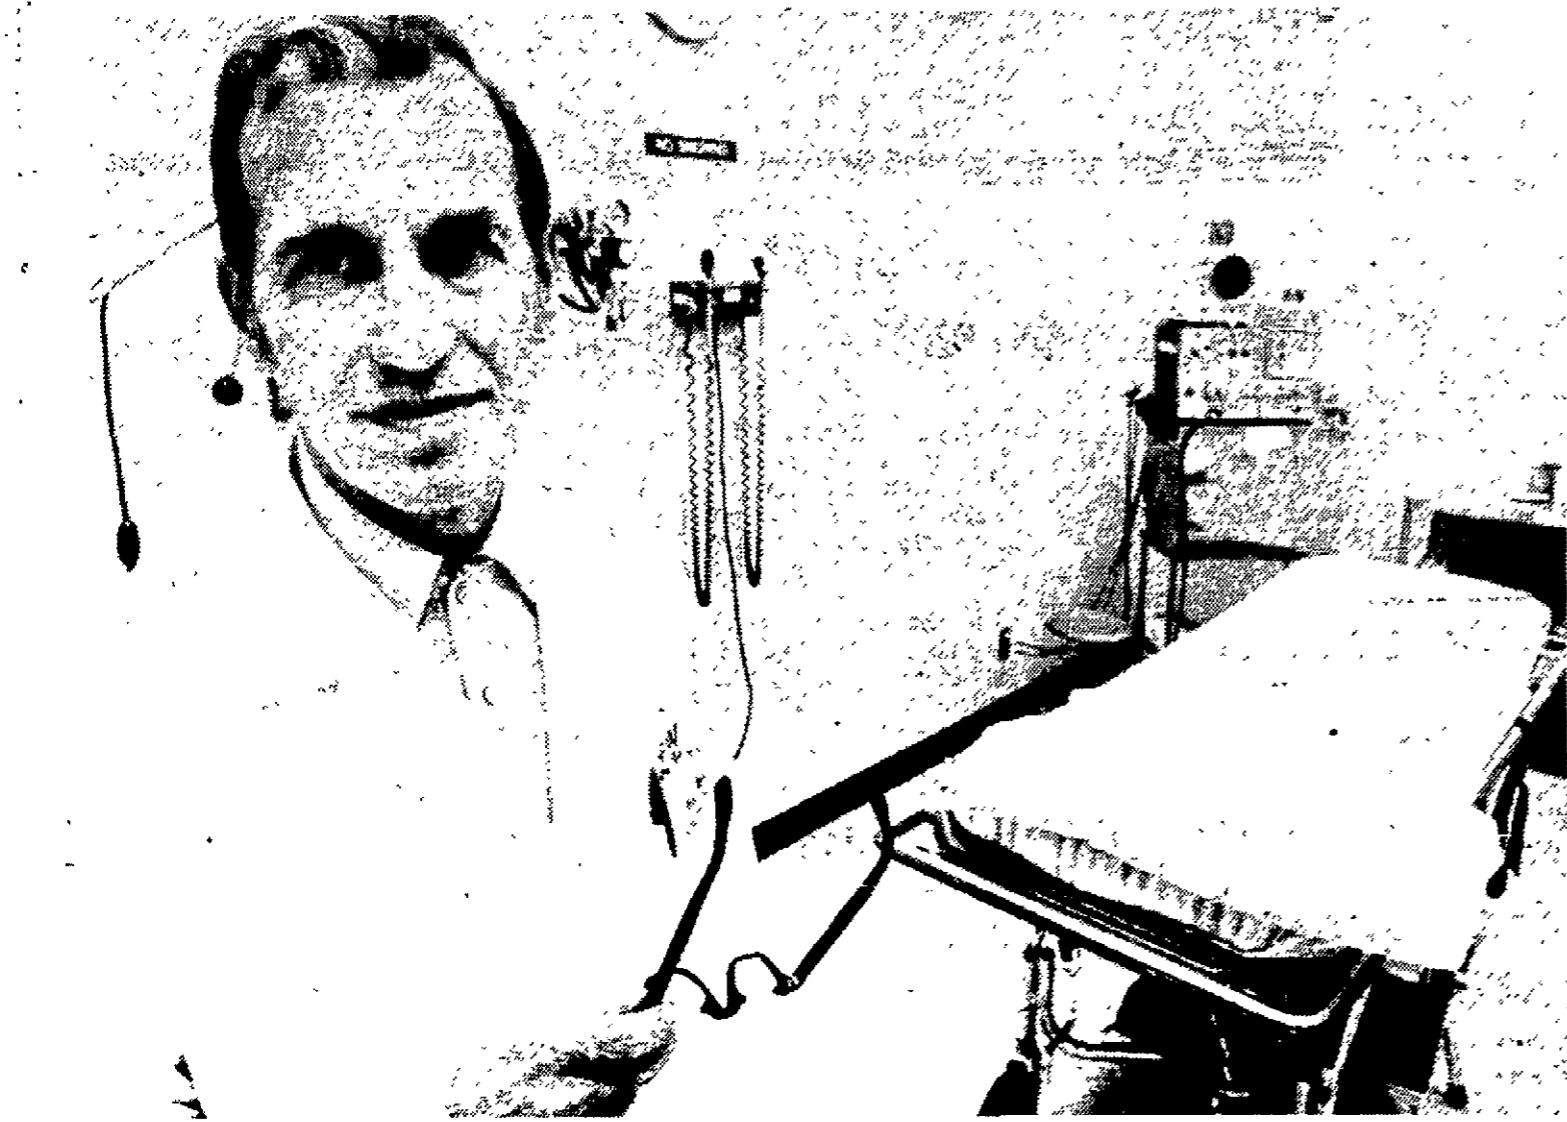

After examining the first series of x-rays, Matthews probed and probed for the object. It was like finding a needle in a haystack. The x-ray had indicated the general location, but failed to give an accurate reading of depth perception. "Was it in the muscle or near the bone?" he questioned.

It could not be found. Another series of x-rays was taken revealing just how close he was. After another 15 minutes of careful probing, the needle finally was extracted. Matthews' expression changed from one of concerned frustration to relief, almost instantaneously.

Finally, the rooms emptied. No more would-be patients came in — for a time, at least.

Matthews sought asylum in his easy chair. It was a change to relax and to reflect on the challenges he had encountered that day — sprains, cuts, broken bones, foreign objects, overdoses, fainting spells, accidents.

Dr. Donald Matthews, chairman of Lincoln General's Department of Emergency Services, has been on the staff of the emergency treatment center for the past five years.

Only You Can Decide What's 'Right'

dear
abby

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 19-year-old girl who is getting more and more confused about the word "morality." Who decides what is morally right? My parents? Society? The law? Or should I make the decision myself?

My parents are divorced and I live with my mother. She keeps company with a nice enough man, but they go away together for weekends, and I'm sure they do more than hold hands. I don't know why they don't get married.

Meanwhile, my mother doesn't want me to stay out too late with my boyfriend. He's in law school, and we can't afford to get married until he graduates.

He doesn't see anything wrong in premarital sex, but it just doesn't seem right to me. I've been able to hold out so far, but why should I? The pill is available, so there is no danger of my getting pregnant. Besides, we love each other, so what's wrong with making love?

I'm sure my mom thinks it's okay for her to do what she does, but she'd have a fit if I did it. How come the difference in standards?

PUZZLED
DEAR PUZZLED: Your mother (like most mothers) regards you as her responsibility, not as a mature young woman who can accept the responsibility for her own actions.

If you feel sufficiently mature and competent to set your own standards for your own reasons, do it.

Who decides what is "morally right"? With the help of your learning, examples, experience and conscience — and with an eye for consequences — YOU.

The series, "Raising Children in A Difficult Time," written by Dr. Benjamin Spock, will continue Monday.

DEAR ABBY: I am 55, and recently remarried. She's a terrific woman who is close to my age. My problem is that some of my tactless friends keep reminding my wife that my ex-wife was pencil slim and dressed like a fashion plate. Now my present wife is determined to diet down to skin and bones.

I think this is ridiculous. I don't want another skinny woman whose main concern in life is dressing to the nines and keeping her weight down, and who, quite frankly, looked like a prune in the raw.

How can I convince my wife that I like the well-padded, soft cuddly woman she was when I married her?

PREFERS A PEACH
DEAR PREFERS: Doesn't your wife know all this? If not — tell her. If you do, and she continues to pay more attention to your tactless friends than she does to you, you have bigger problems than you think.

DEAR ABBY: After 50 years of marriage, I lost my mate.

Although we never were blessed with children, we had many nieces and nephews who always addressed us as "Uncle Herman and Aunt Minnie."

I recently married a lovely woman who had been a friend of the family's for many years. (She lost her mate, too.) Now I find that my nieces and nephews address us as "Uncle Herman and Bertha."

I don't mind being called "Hey you," but I think it's disrespectful of them to address my wife as "Bertha."

What do you think?

SAME OLD UNCLE

HERMAN
DEAR UNC: I think you should tell your nieces and nephews that you'll gladly answer to "a monkey's uncle," but you'd appreciate it if they would call your wife "Aunt Bertha."

Human Services In Final Stage

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

After more than a year of discussions and disagreements, city lawmakers and county commissioners will mull over an agreement next week creating a joint Department of Human Services.

As proposed, the department would be headed by an administrator, who would be a county employee appointed by the County Board. The City Council would have to approve the appointment.

Yet to be hammered out by the lawmakers is who will pay how much for the new department.

Cost Splits

The city and county split 50%-50% on operating costs of both the health department and civil defense, while the planning department costs are split 80%-20%.

Discussion on delivering human services began last summer when Councilwoman Sue Bailey suggested that some type of help was needed to administer general revenue sharing funds for agencies, requesting those funds.

Several council members favored the hiring of a consultant, while others favored the hiring of a staff person to do the job. A study conducted by a private consultant recommended the creation of a blue ribbon panel to make recommendations to the council.

Another Look

That group, the Human Services Advisory Committee suggested the hiring of the Bureau of Sociological Research and Lincoln Community Services. But, the council decided to take another look into the matter.

About that time the county commissioners were asked to consider the dilemma, with Board Chairman Bob Colin maintaining the delivery of human services was a county function, not a city one.

Under the proposal, which will be considered by the council Monday and the commissioners Tuesday, the administrator of the joint department would:

- assess all human services now being delivered in the city and rural areas.
- assess the needs of the residents for human services.

—evaluate the adequacy of existing programs.

—prepare a multi-year plan for the delivery of human services, similar to the six-year program for capital improvements prepared by city departments.

—plan and initiate reports and new programs relating to the delivery of human services.

City-County Liaison

The administrator also would serve as a liaison between the city and county and other levels of government.

All applicants for the job must have completed a masters degree and have three years of experience or have a bachelors degree and seven years of experience. Under the plan, an applicant must hold a degree in social science, public administration, business administration or a related field.

The agreement may be terminated by either the city or county provided that 180 days notice is given.

6 Officials Arrested

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Ethiopia's military reformers announced Friday night the arrest of six more top officials considered corrupt and reactionary, including the commander of the 2nd Army Division and the administrator general of the Ethiopian Orthodox Church.

The official Ethiopian News Agency said the six gave themselves up peacefully. That brought to 18 the number confirmed as arrested, including some of Emperor Haile Selassie's closest aides, since soldiers moved into Addis Ababa last Friday and put the city under curfew.

Announced as detained Friday were Maj. Gen. Seyoum Gedle Giorgis, 2nd Division commander in Eritrea Province; Sen. Ermias Kebede, administrator general of the Church; Abebe Gebre and Brig. Gen. Samuel Beyene, both senators; Crown Councilor Mahteme-Selassie Wolde-Meskal, and Worku Mekasha, general manager of the Addis Ababa dairy industry.

The detainees, accused of backroom attempts to perpetuate Ethiopia's feudal system, were held at riot police headquarters.

The rebel armed forces committee announced that some military radicals who had been detained by conservative forces during mutinies last March were released.

The committee, directing the hunt for as many as 200 civilians on an arrest list, also broadcast a warning to officials believed to have fled the capital and taken refuge in the countryside.

Coyote Mother Corners Escaped Cat, Geronimo

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Geronimo, the 225-pound jaguar who has southwest Oklahomans jittery while he roamed the area, was exposed in federal court Friday as a pussycat afraid of a female coyote.

Geronimo's shame came during a hearing before U.S. District Court Judge Stephen Chandler, who was asked to decide who gets to keep the jaguar and two other wild cats—the owners or the government.

Judge Chandler decided after Friday's hearing that he could issue a ruling only after inspecting Geronimo's home grounds.

U. S. Atty. William Burkett said Judge Chandler will conduct a hearing in Mangum at 10:30 a. m. next Wednesday after inspecting cages where the animals are kept.

Chandler has said earlier he would be in Mangum Monday, but pre-trial hearings scheduled next week forced postponement of the Mangum trip until Wednesday.

Frank Ready, the animal handler who brought Geronimo, a leopard and a mountain lion to Oklahoma, told the judge the jaguar was "less harmful than the German shepherds that roam the streets."

The big cat, in captivity all its life until its escape from a pen near Mangum, last week, was chased under a farm house by a female coyote, Ready said.

He said it was the coyote protecting her pups that actually caught Geronimo after a week-long search by armed humans had failed.

Searchers caught up with the big cat at the farm house and flushed him from beneath it with the use of tranquilizer guns and water hoses.

Ready told Judge Chandler he brought the cats to Oklahoma to start a zoo and breeding farm and that bringing them to the state was actually an effort to keep them from being destroyed.

He said the three cats were in Eureka Springs, Ark., and he had been told they would be destroyed if he did not pick them up immediately. He said that by the time he reached Eureka Springs, a male mountain lion and a hyena had already been killed.

Geronimo had been in his new home near Mangum less than a week when he escaped from his temporary cage. He was caught after a six-day search.

Ready said he had been too involved in the search to prepare the required paperwork for bringing endangered species across state lines into Oklahoma.

All the publicity about the cat caught the attention of federal wildlife agents who were ready to impound the cats when Ready and Mrs. Ruby Foster got a temporary restraining order from Judge Chandler.

The cats were still in the cages belonging to Ready and Mrs. Foster Friday, but are wearing tags placed on them by federal agents, who threatened to move the cat from Mrs. Foster's home to Marshall, Tex.

British Foreign Minister Asks Strong Nuclear Weapons Treaty

LONDON (AP) — British Foreign Minister James Callaghan called on Friday for a strengthening of the world treaty to stop the spread of nuclear weapons.

"There are rumors many more countries are thinking of moving into this field," he said in an exclusive interview. He did not list them.

India recently became the world's sixth nuclear power after the United States, Russia, Britain, France and China. Argentina, Sweden, Switzerland, Israel and Japan are among countries believed capable of producing nuclear weapons.

In his first interview since the Labor government took office in March, Callaghan said he and other British leaders will discuss the nuclear issue with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger on Monday.

Callaghan said the Labor government ruled-out one-sided action to remove the U.S. Polaris base from Britain. "It would happen only as part of a multilateral disarmament negotiation," he said.

The foreign minister also said Britain is consulting with the Americans to renew the 1958 nuclear cooperation agreement before one of its sections expires at the end of this year. He said nothing new will be introduced, but it signals Britain's resolve to remain in the nuclear club and to go on working closely with the Americans in exchanging nuclear secrets.

Callaghan said the British government has abandoned a project favored by former Conservative Prime Minister Edward Heath for a combined British-French nuclear force to be held "in trust" for Europe.

Callaghan said the Nixon administration has assured Britain its offers of peaceful nuclear technology to Egypt and Israel will not speed the introduction of nuclear weapons into the Mideast.

FRCTION-THEN RUIN

Packed into every watch are cogs and wheels, levers and springs. Varying in size and shape, each helps keep time. But look more closely. A thin film of oil adheres to many of the moving parts. Without it there is friction—then wear and . . . damage.

Within most towns, you'll find banks and shops, supermarkets and churches. They vary in size and purpose, yet each contributes to an orderly society.

Faith in God is essential to society. Without it there is friction—then distrust and . . . ruin.

In church people find faith that gives greater meaning to life in a complex and rapidly changing world. Is your life running smoothly? Why not attend church this Sunday?

Cost Barrier Worsens For Poorer Countries

New York — Soaring food costs are making it increasingly impossible for the poorer countries — and poorer people everywhere — to get a share of limited food supplies and still find money for almost equally vital needs, such as fuel, according to a leading analyst of international food and population problems.

Lester R. Brown, a senior fellow of the Overseas Development Council in Washington, said in a recent interview that this "cost barrier" was certain to get broader and higher unless ways were found to assure more even distribution as well as higher world production of food.

"For the 30 or 40 poorest countries — those with annual per capita incomes of not much more than $100 — food import costs are too high. They have gone up too fast for them primarily the grains which have to be imported by a large number of developing countries."

With grain prices double and triple what they were two years ago, the poorer countries cannot afford to buy through conventional market channels, Brown noted. An urgent and immediate solution to this problem, he continued, would include a doubling of food aid and a start on raising food production in developing countries.

Before joining the ODC a few years ago, Brown, a 40-year-old economist and agronomist, was administrator of the International Agricultural Development Service of the Department of Agriculture. He has also assisted agricultural programs in a number of developing countries.

The rise in energy and fertilizer costs, coming on top of the skyrocketing of grain prices, Brown noted, has seriously disrupted food economies.

Most developing countries, he said, have become food-importing countries because of unfavorable climatic conditions, as well as lags in the flow of food aid and in their own efforts to increase food production as rapidly as population growth.

With world food supplies at present in precariouly close balance with demand, Brown commented, equitable distribution would not easily be achieved.

To obtain it, he continued, there may have to be some literal belt-tightening by affluent countries — less prodigal use of food grains to produce beef, which may mean for Americans greater substitution of other protein foods for fat-laden sirloins.

"Hundreds of millions of people in the developing world cannot pay higher food prices. Their only way to adjust is to eat less. Their governments, already under heavy burdens of short-term import debts — cannot very long provide subsidies to hold down domestic prices of rice or other cereal imports."

The distribution problem, the analyst asserted, may be the hardest task for the United Nations world food conference scheduled in Rome in November. Another aim of the conference is the setting up of a world "buffer" food reserve to meet emergencies such as that of the sub-Saharan drought.

While making his comments, Brown referred to a recent assessment of the world food situation made by the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization for the Rome meeting.

A main point of this was a need to increase annual world production of cereals — wheat, rice, corn and soybeans — by an average of 25 million metric tons a year.

The present production of these basic foods is 1.2 billion metric tons a year. The report also emphasized the sharp recent rise of prices of the key cereals.

Rice, which has become a staple food in Africa as well as in Asia and other regions, recently rose to nearly $600 a metric ton, compared with $136 in mid-1972.

"Increasing food production is going to be more costly," Brown commented, "not only because of fuel and fertilizer costs, but also because of the costs of finding new arable land and water."

Boost In Food Stamps Comes Slow To Some

WASHINGTON (AP) — People receiving government food stamps got a cost-of-living raise this week, but officials say the benefits will be slow getting to all who would be eligible.

Congress ordered the Agriculture Department in new farm legislation last summer to make semi-annual adjustments in food stamp benefits to help poor people keep up with rising living costs.

Previously adjustments were made only once a year. The first boost came last Jan. 1, equivalent to a 22 per cent increase in monthly food stamp allowances for a family of four. The increase, amounting to $26, put the stamp allocation at $142 per month.

On Monday the scale went up again by 5.6 per cent for a four-member family to $150 per month. A family is required to buy part of the monthly coupons at rates based on income and is given bonus stamps to boost its spending at grocery stores.

Although the semi-annual increases are automatic for those who are enrolled in the program, there are at least 1.6 million others who would be eligible immediately if local authorities would accept the new form of federal assistance.

Many counties still operate older commodity donation systems. While all but two counties have switched or have agreed to switch to food stamps, there has been a lag in the actual issue of stamps in many of these counties.

A spokesman for the department's Food and Nutrition Service said that of 1.6 million persons still receiving the old government-donated commodities in May, the most recent month tabulated, about 592,000 were in Puerto Rico.

The remainder were in areas where county officials have already agreed to switch to food stamps but have not yet started to do so, and among some Indian tribes which have not yet decided on which plan to accept, the spokesman said. Even so, under pressure from Congress, the food stamp program has made dramatic gains in recent years. Officials said 13.2 million persons received stamps in May, double the participants in 1970 and quadruple those in 1969.

As food stamp enrollment has risen, so have costs. Counting the July 1 boost in benefits, the 1974-75 spending may be around $4.3 billion, up more than $1 billion from last fiscal year.

The two counties which have not accepted food stamps — excluding Puerto Rico — are Butler County in Alabama, where a commodity donation program has been operated and Beaver County, Okla., which has not had any type of government food stamp program.

Agency officials said, however, both of those counties may soon agree to food stamps.

Plink . . . Plink . . . Plink . . .

Mackinac Island, Mich. (UPI) — David Bogan flexed his arm, took a firm grip and fired a world record 19-skip stone that plinked and pitty-patted its way to victory Friday in the annual Mackinac Island Stone Skipping Tournament.

Bogan, 21, was rewarded with 52 pounds of island-made fudge — a year's supply — and a 125-pound rock called the Little David Trophy, which, according to the rules, must be lugged away by the winner.

A resident of Chicago who summers on this island between Michigan's upper and lower peninsulas, Bogan beat out a field composed of hundreds of intense stone skippers.

The 19-skip stone was a record-breaker, shattering the world record set in 1932 by Cmdr. E. M. Tellefson whose 17-skip performance was entered in the Guinness Book of World Records.

The sky was bright and clear and the waters of Lake Huron calm when Tellefson, who serves as chief field judge, opened the tournament with his traditional cry: "Let he who is without frisbee cast the first stone."

For the next five hours, gum-biting, finger-twisting contestants searched for the perfect skim.

Plinks, or clean cut skips with heavy water showing between hops were rewarded with cheers from the spectators, while plonks, a stone that plunges into a wave after the first skip, were given a round of boos.

A few luckless contestants tossed skronkers, or stones that miss the water entirely. When a skronker hits a spectator, tournament officials said, it's called an "Agnew."

There is no limit to the number of times a contestant may enter, but all stone skips within a set must be skipped within five minutes.

Contestants must supply their own stones from the beach but prepackaged bags of stones can usually be purchased from small boys who hawk their wares with enthusiasm.

Defending champion Glenn A. Loy Jr., 19, of Flint, Mich., finished third this year in a tie with his brother, David, 15, with 15-skip performances each.

Icelandic Coalition Proposed; Conservative Head Appointed

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — President Kristján Eldjarn said Friday he has asked conservative independence party chief Geir Hallgrímsson to head a new coalition government.

The announcement ended a week of speculation following the indecisive general election last Sunday in which none of the five main parties won a majority in the 60-seat parliament.

Eldjarn said he made the decision after talks with leaders of all parties, including outgoing Premier Ólafur Jóhannesson of the Progressive party who headed a leftist coalition since 1971.

Hallgrímsson was expected to turn to the Progressives to try to form a working coalition of 41 in parliament, although the five Social Democratic party members may also be sought in upcoming talks, political observers speculated.

Observers expected some difficult bargaining before a government could be formed, since a Hallgrímsson government would be expected to make a sharp turn to the right in Icelandic affairs.

Hallgrímsson, former mayor of Reykjavik, was a highly successful businessman before entering politics. His family owns a large import and retail business. He rose to the leadership of the Independence party when its former chairman, Bjarn Benediktsson, was killed in a fire in 1970.

The main plank in his campaign platform was Iceland's continued membership in NATO and maintenance of its special arrangement for the United States to man the Keflavik air base where America monitors the movements of the Soviet submarine fleet.

The gains of his party in Sunday's election were seen as evidence that Icelandic voters opposed Jóhannesson's plans to evict the Americans by mid-1975.

"Iceland's security can only be guaranteed by continued membership in NATO and by bilateral defense agreements with the United States," Hallgrímsson said.

But perhaps of greater immediacy to a Hallgrímsson government will be quick measures to curb Iceland's runaway inflation, running at 40 per cent this year.

New York (AP) — The stock market meandered lower Friday on one of Wall Street's quietest days in years.

In a session wedged between the July 4 holiday and the weekend, New York Stock Exchange volume reached only 7.4 million shares — the lightest total since 7.35 million shares changed hands Oct. 25, 1971.

American Stock Exchange turnover barely surpassed the million mark at 1.08 million shares, a low point going back almost eight years to Oct. 14, 1966.

In the general decline, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials slipped 1.10 to 791.77, holding a little more than a point above the 1974 closing low it hit on Tuesday.

Declines outnumbered advances 755 to 523 among the 1,688 issues traded on the NYSE.

Many brokers and investors, obviously, simple were off on a four-day holiday. In view of the negative tenor of interest rate news throughout the session, the market was quite possibly better off with as few participants as it had.

Through the morning hours, one major bank after another joined quickly in raising the prime lending rate a quarter-point to a record 12 per cent, making the increase virtually industrywide by noon.

Meanwhile, some credit experts were saying it was unlikely there would be much good news from the Federal Reserve in its weekly figures on business borrowing at major New York banks.

Investors have been watching that data, and loans in each of the three previous weeks.

After Friday's final bell, the statistics turned up with an even more dramatic $1.09-billion increase. That figure raised the likelihood of more interest-rate increases soon, analysts said.

Federal National Mortgage was the day's most-active issue, down 1/4 to 14 1/2. A 100,000-share block traded at 14, and another 51,000-share bundle at 14 1/4.

Many of the sharpest losses occurred in the glamour sector, with IBM down 4 1/4 at 205 1/4; Johnson & Johnson, down 3 1/4 at 107 1/4; Upjohn 2 1/4 at 70 1/4; Fairchild Camera, off 1 1/4 at 33 1/4; and Xerox down 1 1/4 to 108 1/4.

In stocks particularly sensitive to interest-rate developments, MGIC Investment lost 1 1/2 to 2 1/2, down from a high earlier this year of 4 1/2; Kaufman & Broad, a large housing developer, off 1/4 to 3 1/4; and American Telephone faded 3/4 to a 1974 low of 44 1/4.

On the American Stock Exchange, the most-active issue was U.S. Filter, unchanged at 5 1/2. A 48,500-share block changed hands at 5 1/2.

The Amex market-value index, helped by an upturn in some recently depressed Canadian oils, gained .96 to 77.69.

The NYSE composite, made up of some 1,500 common stocks, slid .27 to 43.60.

7 Holiday Deaths Raise Fatality Toll To 174

By The Associated Press
The Nebraska traffic death count for the long Independence Day Holiday weekend stood at seven Friday.

The deaths raised the state toll for the year to 174 as compared with 195 on July 5, 1973.

Gregory Adams, 22, of Bellevue, son of a prominent Sarpy County family, was killed early Friday in a two-car crash southeast of Papillion.

Adams, a Creighton University law student, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dixon Adams. His father has been Sarpy County attorney for 20 years and plans to retire this year.

Adams was a passenger in a car driven by his wife, Jodeen, 22, when it was in collision with another vehicle. The mishap occurred on Highway 370 near Omaha.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold

Hauschild of Avoca died when their car struck a bridge abutment on Highway 50, about two miles north of Syracuse Thursday night. Their car was northbound at the time.

Hauschild, 48, was a farmer and construction worker. He and his wife, Phyllis, 46, are survived by three sons and a daughter.

Services for the Hauschilds will be at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the First Lutheran Church in Avoca.

Mervin D. Luschei, 23, of Central City, died when his motorcycle was in collision with a car driven by Mrs. Geneva Stettner of Central City in Central City.

In another accident, this one on Interstate 80, Michael Jones, 23, of Omaha, was killed when his motorcycle hit a barricade. Officials said only two days before his wife gave birth to a baby girl. She was in the hospital at the time of the crash.

Officers said the accident took place on a stretch of Interstate where resurfacing work was being done on bridges over Papio Creek and 84th Street.

Investigators said Jones was thrown 104 feet from the point of impact. They said he was not wearing a helmet and suffered massive head injuries.

Earlier holiday period fatalities included Sharon Kober, 16, of Hastings and George R. Williams Jr., 26, of Kinston, N.C.

Highway deaths from 6 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday at midnight are counted as holiday fatalities, according to the Nebraska Accident Record Bureau.

Jail Escapee Draws Sentence

Columbus (AP) — Charles L. Johnson, 18, of Columbus was sentenced Friday to 18 months in the Nebraska Penal Complex by District Court Judge C. Thomas White. Johnson had been charged with assault and battery and contempt of court. He escaped from the Platte County jail June 1 and was apprehended 45 minutes later.

Denton Youth Wins $500 Grant

A high school senior from Denton, Kenneth W. Thayer, has been awarded the $500 Sperry New Holland scholarship in agricultural engineering at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Thayer, who has also won a Regents Scholarship, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Thayer. He intends to enroll in UNL this fall.

Legislative Hearing Set For G.I.

Grand Island — The Public Works Committee of the Nebraska Legislature will hold a public hearing Monday at Grand Island at 1 p.m. in the First National Bank auditorium on LB138. The committee will tour the proposed wildlife refuge area in the morning and will be given a slide presentation by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife in the afternoon.

Addition To Bean Plant Completed

Bridgeport (UPI) — Storage capacity at the Trinidad Bean Co. here will be boosted by 24,000 bags upon completion of a new addition at the plant. A new weighing scale and dumping facility are included in the project. The firm has been operating the past 16 years out of the old Burlington-Northern Railroad roundhouse.

Rural Health Task Force To Meet

Omaha (UPI) — A rural health task force will soon begin considerations to improve health care in Nebraska. The task force will meet next Thursday at the continuing education center of the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha. Donald Tredway of Fullerton is chairman of the task force, appointed recently by University of Nebraska President D. B. Varner.

Platte College Receives Funds

Columbus — Platte Technical Community College has received notification from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare that it has been awarded $15,775 under Title VI-A of the Higher Education Act of 1965. These monies are awarded for purchase of laboratory and other related instructional equipment. The college has also been notified that it will receive a college library resources grant of $4,235 for 1974.

Health Board May OK Regional Plan

The Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council board of directors at its annual meeting Wednesday will consider accepting the final draft of an interim emergency medical services regional plan.

At a 7:30 p.m. public session in the 5th floor west auditorium of the Lincoln Center Building, 15th & N, board members will also be asked to accept a planning framework for the development of an area health plan, and a proposal for review and comment criteria and procedures.

The framework for the area health plan, under discussion for the past several months, must be accepted as a condition of fiscal 1974 and 1975 grant funds. The plan for the 17-county southeast Nebraska area includes methods of operation, a time table, specific tasks and delegation of assignments.

The review and comment proposal, which establishes guidelines for the council to analyze and make recommendations on health project proposals, must also be accepted as a condition for a grant award.

Review and comment criteria and procedures have been under development since March 1973. If adopted by the board, the manual will be used through March 1975, including an evaluation and modification period from January through March.

Another agenda item is proposed board acceptance of the agency development plan, which includes objectives in the agency assessment program for fiscal 1975. Federal and state health planning officials may recommend revisions to the development plan, after board approval.

The board will review work programs for fiscal years 1974 and 1975, and will accept nominations for fiscal 1975 officers and board members. Local fund raising efforts in fiscal 1975 will also be discussed.

Teenagers Charged In Omahan's Killing

Omaha (UPI) — A charge of first-degree murder in commission of a felony was filed Friday against Joseph H. McDonald, 16, and Robert N. Johnson, 15, both of Omaha.

The boys were accused of killing Lyle D. Ford, 38, Omaha, while robbing Ford of $20.

Ford, the father of four, was clubbed on the head with a rifle butt and placed inside the trunk of his car, police said. The back seat of the car was then set afire and Ford died of smoke inhalation.

Ex-Official Of North Platte Dies

North Platte (AP) — William O. Reitan, 68, former city clerk, treasurer and city administrator for North Platte, died Thursday.

He was a native of Minden and held offices in the North Platte city government from 1966 until his retirement in 1973 when he continued as an adviser until July 1 of this year.

He was a veteran of World War II and was active in the American Legion over a long period.

Rolling Car Kills Owner

Nebraska City (AP) — Walter Goschenour, 66, of Nebraska City, was killed Thursday night when he was struck by his own car on private property.

Officers were told that the vehicle had been parked and Gochenour was outside the car when it began to roll. He apparently attempted to stop it, but police reports show it rolled over him and rolled and dragged him for 30 feet.

Helicopter Serves As Yard Ornament

Now here's a lawn ornament that's different. The chopper is for real and has turned many a motorist's head along U.S. 81 south of York. Carl Buller, who owns the Henderson Irrigation

Co., often whirls to work in the machine. It happens that the front yard of his rural home doubles as a helipad. Mrs. Buller and daughter Sherry are shown with the craft. (Star Photo.)

Marvel Says Research Needed

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Republican gubernatorial nominee Richard Marvel of Hastings Friday applied the brakes to talk of a special legislative session.

Marvel said staff research on the state's general fund balance, including how much it is committed for future expenditure, and on the current status of technical community colleges is needed to determine whether a special session is necessary.

"I am attempting to ferret out the actual needs of our state government based on the commitments of the state," the Legislature's Appropriations Committee chairman said.

Fund Surpluses
"Certainly it is within the realm of possibility that a special session of the Legislature should be considered to lighten the obligation the Nebraska taxpayers are now being forced to accept just to maintain surpluses not needed by the state."

Marvel said Gov. J. James Exon and the Department of Revenue should determine how much of the general fund balance is surplus and how much represents obligated funds.

The balance, he said, is approaching $70 million.

Only about $15 million of that total is required to meet the general fund balance required by law, he said.

Sales Tax Cut
Marvel has previously suggested that most of the remaining funds could be returned to the taxpayers in the form of a state sales tax rate reduction. The rate is now 2 1/2%.

"If it (the balance) is needed, tell us where, how and why," Marvel suggested to the governor.

"If it is not needed, let's reduce this tax load immediately."

'One Promise'
"During the 19 weeks remaining in this campaign,"

Marvel declared, "I intend to reiterate over and over one promise to the voters."

"When I am governor, not one dollar in taxes will be advocated or approved for the purpose of maintaining a treasury surplus beyond that required by law."

Marvel said Exon criticized former Gov. Norbert Tiemann during the 1970 gubernatorial campaign for the size of the state's general fund balance at that time.

"Now, he chooses to accumulate twice that amount in the general treasury and castigates anyone who dares to challenge his right to do so," Marvel said.

Court Decision

As for technical community colleges, Marvel said, research — including an attorney general's opinion — should determine whether immediate action is needed to deal with the financial and legal ramifications of a recent State Supreme Court decision.

That decision tossed out property tax funding for the schools.

Sales Tax Cut Would Cost State $250 Million—Exon

By The Associated Press

Gov. J. James Exon said Friday that reduction of the state sales tax would cost Nebraska more than $250 million in revenue over the next two years.

The suggestion to reduce the tax was made by State Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, the Republican candidate for governor.

In a telephone interview,

Exon said the so-called state aid to education bill will require the state to raise an additional $80 million in 1975.

He said that when the legislature passed LB772 for state aid to education over his veto, senators said it would cost a one cent increase in the sales tax.

Exon said with this in mind, it is irresponsible to call for a reduction in the tax.

Fairbury SE Tech Tabs Director

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

D. Eugene Marcy of Bend, Ore., Friday was named director of the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College (SE Tech) Fairbury campus, replacing Ivan Simpson, who was fired by the college governing board.

College Area President Dr. Robert S. Eicher said Marcy will begin his duties about July 20, at an annual salary of $21,500.

Marcy, who holds a doctorate in college administration from Oregon State University and was an associate professor at Central Oregon Community College for nine years, was selected from among 25 applicants.

Good Background

Eicher said in an interview that Marcy, 41, "has had a good community college background. He understands what needs to be done and what our goals are in the southeast area."

A chemistry professor, Marcy held positions of instructor, department chairman and administrative assistant to the president at Bend. He headed a status study of north-central colleges and served on a salary research team for colleges in Oregon.

He has conducted experimentation with the self-paced learning for mastery technique, compiled a policy manual for Central Oregon Community College, and edited a self-study for reaccreditation and a 10-year plan for development of the Bend college.

Curriculum Guides

The author of curriculum guides for college occupational areas, Marcy served as vice chairman and chairman of the Oregon Community College Faculty Association, was on the boards of Northwest College and University and the Association of Scientists, and was the Oregon representative to a two-year college chemistry committee.

He earned his bachelor's degree in education from Kansas State Teachers College of Emporia (1954) and his masters degree from Kansas State University (1963), both with chemistry majors. Marcy took post-doctoral work in community college administration and instructional methods at Eastern Washington State College.

President Eicher said Marcy has had experience at Bend with a comprehensive approach to education, in academics, vocational training and administration.

Fairbury Campus Goals

"We feel that he can do a good job," Eicher said, noting immediate goals for the Fairbury campus include expanding extension classes offered through the college transfer system, and vocational programming, particularly in the agribusiness area.

Marcy will also work to increase adult program offerings at the Fairbury campus and in the area around Fairbury, Eicher said.

Married and father of five children, Marcy was formerly an instructor at Kansas State University, teacher at Anaheim Union High School, instructor at Orange Coast College, and assistant professor at Boise Junior College. During summers he taught at other schools in California and Washington, as well as doing chemical consulting work for industry.

Convention Explodes State Democrats' Harmony Theme

By RANDY BROWN
Associated Press Writer

Omaha (AP) — Is the 1974 Nebraska Democratic party platform a radical document? Is the Pope a Presbyterian?

Of course, the platform could have been milder, much milder. At the Democrats' state convention in Norfolk last weekend, the party's platform committee presented delegates a program that was inoffensive to the extreme.

This was in keeping with the early-convention theme of party harmony. But, by their own admission, it is not the Democrats' way to live together for three days with harmony running rampant.

The Sunday morning session quickly became a wrangle between chairman Dean Kocina of Omaha and a number of black delegates from Omaha over rules for election of delegates to the national party's "mini convention." The meeting will be held in Kansas City in December to write rules for the national party.

The convention upheld Kocina. Dissidents offered amendment after amendment to slip by the ruling, but Kocina would have none of it, even though he seemed quite confused about the mini-convention selection process.

So now second congressional district minority delegates plan to send their own delegates to Kansas City to challenge the authorized delegation.

The dissidents have some support.

One Omaha delegate said the incident could have been avoided or mitigated if Kocina had been counseled beforehand about mini convention selection problems. "There were a lot of bad rulings from the chair," he said, but they were not altogether Kocina's fault.

The crux of the upcoming hassle is the May 15 deadline for mini convention candidate filings.

The date achieved a sort of mystical importance during debate.

Despite the impression many delegates got from "clarification" attempts, the deadline was an invention of the state central committee, not the national party. Whether it was arbitrary, unfair and not sufficiently publicized probably will be decided in Kansas City.

Dissidents weren't the only puzzled folk. Marge Higgins, chairperson of the Douglas County Democratic Party, later said she had never heard of the May 15 deadline. And quite a few others hadn't either, she said.

The platform debate was quieter, but longer. Weary delegates began drifting away early, and the longer the afternoon wore on, the more liberal the remaining majority became.

This isn't to say the result produced a "liberal" platform, or even a strongly worded, issue-oriented one. The platform — despite the gay rights and amnesty issues and a few specific proposals, like a resolution to end crimes-without-victims laws and a tough statement on complete disclosure of campaign finances is a middle-of-the-road document that doesn't say much specific about anything.

At least it has given Gov. Exon's quixotic opponent, Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, a couple of issues he can sink his teeth into.

Marvel's mid-week press release accusing Exon of masterminding approval of the gay rights and amnesty resolutions was as inaccurate as it was silly.

Any observer could have easily determined that no one was in complete control of the platform discussion.

If anything, Exon was a force behind the amorphous original platform proposal and the dogged harmony campaign.

Despite the spats, the Democrats look healthy and determined. The party is almost whole, unless it finds a way to widen the schism over the mini-convention.

Evert Nets Win; Men's Final Set

Wimbledon, England (AP) — It's a story book thought but auld England is the land of stories and romance, so why not have Jimmy Connors and Chris Evert take the first dance at Saturday night's Wimbledon ball? It is tradition in this 97-year-old grandfather of tennis championships for the men's and women's champions to lead the dancers onto the floor on this gala formal windup.

Miss Evert, 19, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., won her ticket for that honor Friday, beating Olga Morozova, the Soviet star, 6-0, 6-4.

Connors, 21, of Belleville, Ill., the man Chris is pledged to wed sometime this fall, shot his way into the men's final, outslugging Dick Stockton of Dallas 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

To qualify as his fiancée's dancing partner, Jimmy must beat 39-year-old Ken Rosewall of Australia, who won the hearts of the tennis world by fighting back from the brink of defeat for a magnificent 6-8, 4-6, 9-8, 6-1, 6-3 triumph over Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C.

Rosewall, a boyish-looking former king of the pros who made his Wimbledon debut in 1952, the year Connors was born, was down two sets and 3-5 in the third before he rallied.

He fought off one match point and had the gallery both cheering and crying as he won the last three sets.

Chris and Jimmy are making the 1974 Wimbledon the "Sweetheart Championships."

The petite Miss Evert, at 19 the second youngest lady to win this title in modern times, literally crushed Olga Morozova, her doubles partner and newfound friend from Moscow, 6-0, 6-4.

It was the most one-sided ladies' final since Doris Hart beat Shirley Fry 6-1, 6-0 in an all-American final in 1951.

Little Chrissy was almost ruthless in the manner that she destroyed her foe.

"You have to win every point. She gives you nothing," the attractive Mrs. Morozova, wife of a Moscow engineering professor, said afterward in despair.

"She has such concentration. Everyone tells me I should play her forehand because she has such a good backhand.

"I play her forehand. She hits the ball as well off her forehand as her backhand. She never makes a mistake."

Chris succeeds Billie Jean King, the grand dame of women's tennis, as Wimbledon champion and she gives every indication that she is now more than just an heir apparent to the throne.

Billie Jean had won the title five times, the last two in a row, and she wanted the sixth to put even with the legendary Suzanne Lenglen of France. Helen Wills Moody won eight.

Billie Jean was the quarterfinal victim of Mrs.

Morozova, who later beat Britain's Virginia Wade in the semifinals.

"Chris is much harder to play," the Russian housewife said. "She stays in backcourt. Others come to the net. I cannot get the ball past her."

Chris, her blonde hair tied with a pink-and-white bow and her pink-trimmed ballerina skirt flying in the gusty winds, cruised through the first set in 25 minutes.

Olga made a slight comeback in the second set—winning two patches of two games each, breaking Chris' service twice—but she lacked the skills to tear down Miss Evert's steadiness.

Her lips closed tight and her pretty face a picture of concentration, Chrissy drilled her two-fisted backhands down the sidelines, hit forehand winners crosscourt and lifted lobs that had Mrs. Morozova almost on the verge of distress.

The match ended tragically for the Russian. She doublefaulted at match point.

Wimbledon fans saw in their new ladies' champion some of the qualities of the late Maureen Connolly, who won here at the age of 17 in 1952 and the next year scored the first Grand Slam of major championships in tennis history.

Like the great "Little Mo," Chris is a deadly shotmaker from backcourt, able to thread the lines with her shots of either wing. Like Maureen, she seems absolutely imperturbable.

After receiving her trophy from the Duke of Kent, Miss Evert rushed to the clubhouse and phoned her father, Jim, a tennis professional in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

"He was so happy, he cried," she said.

There were tears in the gallery, too, for the gritty, Rosewall—tears of happiness, just as there had been tears for old Jaroslav Drobny back in 1954 when the stateless Czech beat a young Rosewall for the championship.

Men's Doubles Championship
John Newcombe and Tony Roche, Australia, beat Jimmy Connors, Belleville, Ill., and Ilie Nastase, Romania, 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

Men's Doubles Semis
Stan Smith, Sea Pines, S.C., and Bobby Lutz, Los Angeles, beat Cliff Drysdale, South Africa, and Tom Okker, The Netherlands, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5, 9-7.

Men's Singles Semifinals
Jimmy Connors, Belleville, Ill., beat Dick Stockton, Dallas, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.
Ken Rosewall, Australia, beat Stan Smith, Sea Pines, S.C., 6-8, 4-6, 9-8, 6-1, 6-3.

Women's Singles Championship
Chris Evert, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., beat Mrs. Olga Morozova, Russia, 6-0, 6-4.

Women's Doubles Semifinals
Evonne Goolagong, Australia, and Peggy Michel, Pacific Palisades, Calif., beat Chris Evert, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Olga Morozova, Russia, 7-5, 6-2.
Helen Gourlay and Karen Krantzcke, Australia, beat Julie Anthony, Los Angeles, and Mona Schallau, Iowa City, Iowa, 9-8, 6-2.

Jimmy Connors must face one more obstacle before joining fiancée Chris Evert on the Wimbledon dance floor.

Tigers Defeat Chicago Twice

By The Associated Press

Jim Northrup slammed his sixth home run of the week, leading the homer-happy Detroit Tigers to a doubleheader sweep over the Chicago White Sox Friday night.

Northrup hit his ninth home run of the baseball season in the first game to help Joe Coleman break an eight-game losing streak with an 9-6 victory.

Norm Cash and Gates Brown each belted two-run homers while Ed Brinkman drove in two runs with a homer and a single to give Detroit a 7-4 decision in the nightcap.

In other American League action, the New York Yankees battered the Texas Rangers 14-2, and the Milwaukee Brewers split a doubleheader with the Minnesota Twins, winning 5-3 before dropping the nightcap 6-4.

The Kansas City Royals game at Boston was postponed by rain.

Cleveland was at California and Baltimore was at Oakland in late action on the West Coast.

In the National League, the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the San Diego Padres 8-1, the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Cincinnati Reds 3-2, the New York Mets trimmed the San Francisco Giants 3-2, the Chicago Cubs swept two games from the Atlanta Braves 4-1 and 3-2, the Houston Astros downed the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-1 and the Los Angeles Dodgers split their doubleheader with the Montreal Expos, winning the nightcap 7-0 after losing the opener 11-6.

Milt May drove across three runs for the Astros with three hits while Larry Dierker allowed only four hits including a homer by Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell.

Philadelphia scored five times in the first innings as Steve Carlton snapped a threegame losing streak with a sixhitter. Del Unser tripled in two runs, while Bob Boone hit a three-run homer for the Phillies.

Andre Thornton's leadoff homer in the bottom of the ninth inning enabled the Cubs to sweep their doubleheader after Bill Bonham had pitched a five-hitter to win the opener. Don Kessinger's two-run double in the fifth inning was the big blow for Chicago in the opening game.

Dave Schneck, who hasn't driven in a run since May 21, delivered a pair of run-scoring singles for the Mets, who were meeting their former manager Wes Westrum for the first time. Westrum, who took over the Giants last weekend, piloted the Mets during the mid-1960s.

Jim Dwyer's tie-breaking two-run single in the eighth inning helped the Cardinals defeat Cincinnati.

Rookie left-hander Geoff Zahn, making his first start of the season, limited Montreal to one hit in seven innings to give the Dodgers a split of their doubleheader and push them into a 10-game lead in the NL West.

Elliot Maddox and Thurman Munson each led the Yanks with four hits while Graig Nettledrove in four runs and Rudy May hurled a four-hitter.

Deron Johnson and John Vukovich each hit homers for Milwaukee in the first game, while Minnesota relied on Larry Hise, who hit a homer and three singles, to help it take the second game.

Wimbledon is rapidly becoming a scene from a fairy-tale book. Will Chris Evert (displaying her singles championship trophy above) join her fiancé Jimmy Connors (far right) in the victory dance? Or will Ken Rosewall (left) prove to be the villain and claim the dance for himself? The answer will be made Saturday as Connors and Rosewall pair off for the men's championship.

Ten-Horse Field Set To Run For $100,000 Cornhusker Race

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Nebraska's first $100,000 horse race wasn't achieved overnight . . . it took almost seven years of planning.

"We've been working towards this for about seven years," said Dick Becker, Ak-Sar-Ben general manager. "You have to do it in steps. You have to keep your $100,000 race in line with the rest of your races. We've finally reached that peak and I think it's good for racing in Nebraska."

"The Cornhusker is getting Nebraska some national publicity," he added. "We're bringing in some outstanding horses so people in our area can see these horses run. But we don't want to get the thing out of balance. We don't want to give away all our stakes money in two or three races."

The Cornhusker Handicap began as a $50,000-added event for older horses. When the 10-horse field reaches the starting gate for the ninth running of the Cornhusker (which will be the eighth race on Saturday's 10-race card), the value will be $100,000-added.

Four invaders, three of whom competed in the June 22 Michigan Mile and One-Eighth at Detroit, appear to be the horses to beat in this mile and one-eighth event.

W. A. Lofton's Tom Tulle, a winner of three important stakes this year, has received top-weight of 122 pounds from racing secretary-handicapper John Maluvis.

He triumphed in the National Jockey Club Handicap at Sportsman's Park, the Louisiana Handicap at the Fair Grounds in New Orleans and in the $100,000 Michigan Mile and One-Eighth.

In earning $65,000 for the Detroit win, he defeated two horses who will get another chance at him in the Cornhusker — Robert and Fred Teshner and Lou Rozzo's Rastafarian and the Crimson King Farm's Crimson Falcon.

Rastafarian, who will carry 116 pounds, ran second — just 2½-lengths behind Tom Tulle at Detroit. In two appearances last year in Omaha, he ran third to Joey Bob and Haveago in the $79,775 Board of Governors' Handicap and fourth in the Cornhusker. He is the only 1973 Cornhusker entrant trying for this year's Cornhusker.

Crimson Falcon, who nudged Ken Opstein's Royal Knight at the wire in last year's President's Cup here on closing day, ran fourth to Tom Tulle in the Michigan race, beaten less than six lengths.

Allie Reuben's Super Sail, the second topweight with 117 pounds, is coming off an impressive victory in the $45,100 Laurence Armour Handicap at Arlington Park on June 22. He received $29,100 for that effort to hike his career winnings to $192,231.

Super Sail draws second top-weight.

Four jockeys will travel here to ride the imports. Craig Perret will ride Tom Tulle, William Gavidia has Super Sail, Vincent Bracciale Jr. has Rastafarian while former Omaha campaigner Al Herrera has the mount on Crimson Falcon.

Trainer Jack Van Berg, who has won the last two Cornhuskers with Joey Bob will saddle Dr. Pantano and Trupan for the Shironne Farms.

Dr. Pantano has captured the $26,825 George Brandeis Handicap over one mile and 1/16th here on June 8 and finished second to Canadian Jeff in the $36,300 Ak-Sar-Ben Handicap on May 18. Trupan, however, is winless in 12 1974 outings.

The High Country Stable's Blazing Gypsy, who scored a virtual wire-to-wire verdict in the King's Handicap here on May 27, gets in with 112 pounds.

The field is completed with Mrs. W. F. Frazee's High Rover, 110 pounds; C. E. Johnson and B. L. Raduziner's Ben's Whiz, 109; and Ken Opstein's Indian, 108.

Opstein elected not to run Omaha Gold Cup Stakes winner Destroyer in the Cornhusker since the race comes only one week after the Omaha Gold Cup and since he felt it was better not to run the 3-year-old against older horses.

Sneed Expands Lead In Milwaukee Open

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Ed Sneed, the leader all the way, clipped one more stroke off par with a 71 and expanded his lead to four strokes Friday in the third round of the $130,000 Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament.

Sneed, who has scored 19 birdies through three rounds of this chase for a $26,000 first prize, had a 54-hole total of 204, 12-under-par on the 7,010-yard Tuckaway Country Club course.

Dave Hill and Bob Zender moved into a tie for second at 208. Hill, winner of the Houston Open earlier this season, played the par five holes threeunder on his way to a 68 while Zender took a 69.

Grier Jones had the best round of the mild, sunny day with a 66 that put him alone at 209.

Former Masters champion Tommy Aaron was alone in second after 36 holes, but blew to a 75 and was tied with five others at 211, a distant seven strokes back going into Saturday's final round.

Also at that figure were Lee Trevino, Larry Hinson, Bob Smith, Cesar Sanudo and Hubert Green, already the winner of three titles this season. Green and Hinson had 68s, Smith a 70, Trevino 71 and Sanudo 73.

Striking NFL Players Seek to Persuade Miami Dolphins

By The Associated Press
Miami Dolphin tight end Jim Mandich said Friday night he would cross any picket line set up by his teammates and report to training camp on July 14 while two other members of the Super Bowl champion team said they were undecided about a course of action.

However, at least 20 of the Dolphin veterans said they would picket the opening of the team's camp on Sunday, when rookies and free agents are scheduled to report.

The striking National Football League Players Association, hoping to swing the Dolphins to their side at a Friday night meeting in Miami, won a victory earlier in the day at San Diego when linebacker Don Goode, a first-round draft pick of the Chargers, joined the picket line.

After the lengthy meeting of Dolphin veterans Friday night in Miami, Ed Garvey, the NFLPA's executive director, emerged to say there was no vote on whether the team should play in the College All-Star.

"We didn't come here to vote on the All-Star game, we only wanted to explain the position of the player's association," said Doug Swift, Dolphin player representative.

Garvey said he tried to impress on the Dolphins that the All-Star game shouldn't be played unless a settlement was reached.

"The Dolphins will meet Sunday morning and we will arrange the picketing," Garvey said after the meeting attended by some 35 veterans.

Swift said the players would not vote as a team on whether to honor the picket line. He said that decision would be left to each player's discretion.

"Nothing in the meeting made me change my mind about not going along with the strike," Mandich said. "I am very tired of the business end of football."

Mandich has played in the shadow of Marv Fleming and is considered to have a good shot at a starting position this season. He said management had treated him well in his contract negotiations and he was looking forward "to my best year and I don't want anything to mess it up."

Veteran placekicker Garo Yepremian said he would go along with whatever the majority of his teammates decided and linebacker Bob Matheson and center Jim Langer said they still hadn't decided what to do.

It was Langer who had earlier said that at least 80 per cent of the Dolphin veterans want to play in the All-Star game.

He declined further comment Friday night but said he would issue a statement about the issue on Saturday.

A failure by some key Dolphins to honor the union's picket line could have a weakening effect on the striking players, who threaten to wipe out the NFL's exhibition season if their demands for freedom from binding contracts are not met.

And in another development, the players' union prepared to set up its second picket line on Saturday in Huntsville, Tex., where the Houston Oilers become the second of the 26 NFL teams to open training camp for rookies and free agents. Team officials said they expected 104 of the players in camp Saturday.

Elliott Bowers, President of Sam Houston State, site of the Oilers camp, said an NFLPA representative in Washington assured him there would be no problems for the school.

"I've been assured by both sides that this will be a peaceful thing," said Dr. Bowers. "This is something between the owners and veterans and unless we're called on to protect our own people and our property, we'll stay out of it."

Unlike the Chargers' training site at U.S. International University, where the campus is fenced off and one main gate was designated as the picket area, Sam Houston State's campus is wide open, with city streets running throughout the campus.

"We can't rope off public streets so we don't know yet what guidelines will be set up until the Management Council people get here," an Oiler official said.

In San Diego, Goode became the second Charger — joining free agent wide receiver Coleman Zeno — to walk out of camp and join the picketing veterans.

They went on strike on Monday over a number of freedom issues, including the right to negotiate with any team they wish and the right to veto trades.

"I don't know if anyone will follow me," Goode said. "Some are willing but they have doubts in their minds . . . I don't know why I did it. I just didn't get the assurance I wanted up on the hill."

Prince Astro Shows Liking For Sprints

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer
Omaha — Prince Astro loves a challenge.

"Prince Astro is an honest horse and as long as there's something up front ahead of him, he'll run," said owner C. L. Warner after his pride scored a half-length verdict here Friday at Ak-Sar-Ben in the $21,425 Speed Handicap. "He's a real intelligent horse and when there's nothing left for him to catch, he tends to stop."

There certainly were enough challenges for the Prince in the 5 1/2-furlong sprint that drew nine entrants, including the highly-regarded Chicago invader Delta Oil.

Under jockey Dan Whited's handling, Prince Astro broke fifth, then began his steady move towards the leaders as the field led, by the Kansas City Racing Stable's National Risk, roared down the backstretch.

Although National Risk held as much as a five-length advantage over the pack down the backstretch, Prince Astro was always within striking distance.

He closed to second, within three lengths entering the stretch and then slowly narrowed that margin until he was clear at the wire. National Risk held on for second, by half-length over J. J. Carras's Swinging Flight.

While the Prince has scored several major handicap victories in route races, Warner said he prefers sprint races.

"I don't like to run him in route races since he's a better sprinter," the Arlington, Tex., owner said. "It's hard for him to go that far. He's run some good route races, but I figured he's a better sprinter."

"We had him nominated for tomorrow (in the $100,000-added Cornhusker Handicap over a mile and one-eighth), and we sort of overlooked this 5 1/2-furlong," he said.

"I just told Dan to lay close ... you can't wait for them like you can with those route horses," he said.

Nevertheless, Warner said he plans to enter the Prince in next Friday's $25,000-added Nebraska Racing Hall of Fame Handicap here over a mile and 70 yards.

"This sort of warmed him up for that one," Warner smiled. "It sort of prepped him for that one."

Prince Astro finished second to Beau Julian in the inaugural running of the Hall of Fame race last year, as he was constantly frustrated in an attempt to score an Omaha win last year.

This season, he has been as impressive here as he was during his earlier campaigning in Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs. The Prince breezed to a 4 1/2-length win in the Beef State Handicap over an identical 5 1/2-furlong course on May 4 and then finished third to Bootlegger's Pet and Dr. Pantano in the Board of Governors' Handicap here on June 22 over a mile and 1/16th.

So the Prince has shown he can either short or long, just as Warner praises his 5-year-old horse.

"Any one of those horses (in the Speed Handicap) could have won," Warner said. "But I figured he's going to be tough as long as there's something (in front) to run against. That's probably the best sprint field he's ever been against."

"I may just run him one more year and then he's going to start raising a family," Warner said.

Prince Astro's time of 1:03.25 was the fastest 5 1/2-furlong reading here this year. It was just 1 1/2 seconds off the track record of 1:02 set by Joey Bob in one division of the Inaugural Handicap here in 1971.

The only casualty of the race was the Monaghan Farms, Inc.'s Plum Run who went lame.

As the 9-5 favorite of the crowd of 16,433, Prince Astro earned $11,783.75 and paid $5.60, $3.60 and $0.30. National Risk placed for $11.00 and $5.20 while Swinging Flight showed for $4.40.

Delta Oil, the second-choice at almost 5-2, finished sixth.

Friday's mutual handle of $1,282,831 set a Friday non-holiday wagering record, breaking the old mark of $1,282,245 set on July 3, 1970.

Swimmers Divers Eye Meet

A total of 415 swimmers and divers from 27 different teams will converge on Woods Pool, 33rd & J Streets, Saturday and Sunday to compete in the 12th annual Great Plains Open and Age Group Swimming and Diving Meet.

Top entries expected to participate in the meet include former state high school champion from Fremont Jeff Evans, now swimming for the University of Wisconsin, and last year's Lambert Trophy winner Greg Rutford from Lincoln East.

The Lambert Trophy is awarded yearly to the top Lincoln swimmer in the 200-meter freestyle.

Rutford was this year's state high school champion in the event.

The Lambert Trophy race will be held today at 5:00 p.m. Anyone wanting to participate in the special race can still sign up before the race.

Other events will begin at 8:30 a.m. both days with warm-ups starting an hour earlier. All events are timed finals and will continue throughout the day.

The meet is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

321 Cases Of Corruption By U.S. Officials Checked

Los Angeles (AP) — The Justice Department on Friday confirmed a report that it has investigated 321 cases of corruption by U.S. Immigration officials.

Rep. Andrew Hinshaw, R-Calif., said Thursday that 224 of the cases have been closed, 58 are still under investigation and decisions on whether to

Driscoll Named To Editor's Post By Omaha Sun

Omaha (UPI) — James G. Driscoll, former columnist for the National Observer, was appointed Thursday as managing editor of the Sun newspaper here, publisher Stanford Lipsey announced.

Driscoll will take over the new post late this month, Lipsey said. Driscoll, 40, has been with the Observer for seven years. Prior to that he was with the Louisville Courier-Journal.

A native of Milwaukee, Driscoll is married and the father of two daughters.

Lancaster Residents Rely On Social Security—Thone

A total of 21,165 Lancaster County residents were receiving $3,337,000 per month in Social Security benefits as of December, 1973, Congressman Charles Thone reported.

In Nebraska, 231,315 persons were receiving $32,490,000 per month. In the First Congressional District, 84,150 prosecute the other 39 are yet to be made.

Most of the charges involve bribery and stem from the smuggling of drugs and illegal aliens.

A Justice Department spokesman in Washington said Hinshaw's figures were correct, but refused to elaborate on the investigations.

Hinshaw is a member of a House subcommittee that has been investigating operations of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. He said he received the statistics from a Justice Department liaison officer with Congress.

Hinshaw has been a critic of the Immigration Service for what he called its lack of success in stemming the flow of illegal aliens into this country.

The statistics he released were from Operation Clean Sweep and indicated that as of June 19, 59 persons had been indicted as a result of the investigation and 42 had been convicted of various criminal charges.

The statistics were the first to be made public in almost a year.

The department has been criticized for not revealing details of the two-year-long operation to uncover corruption along the 2,000-mile U.S.-Mexico border.

Some congressmen and investigators have described Operation Clean Sweep as a "cover-up."

Omaha Husbands Killed In Domestic Squabbles

Omaha (AP) — Police said two domestic squabbles Thursday night resulted in the deaths of two Omaha men, and the filing of charges against one woman.

Richard Patton, 52, died at a hospital, about one hour after he was stabbed at his home by his common-law wife, Jessie B. Robertson, 49.

Deputy County Atty. Jerome Merwald said the case appeared to be self defense, and that the Robertson woman would not be charged.

At about the same time as the Patton incident, police said another husband-wife argument resulted in the death of John W. Meeks, 29.

Meeks was shot to death in the front yard of his South Omaha home, according to police reports.

Detectives said Meeks' wife, Clara Mae, 29, was taken into custody, and later charged with manslaughter.

Minister Still Believes Shooting A Conspiracy

Marcus Wayne Chenault, 23,

II Believes Conspiracy

"I believe behind the black individual there must be some white people that are working on it," said Gilbert.

The affirmative action statement was in a resolution praising the Law School of the University of Washington for using the program.

"We issue a stern rebuke to all who seek to short circuit positive programs to end discrimination in fact by raising the phony emotion-charged issue that the means to end 200 years of oppression is inverse dispression is reverse discrimination.'"

Chou told Pakistan Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto in the middle of May that he was in declining health because of old age. Since he was host to Razak's official visit, Chou has been represented by subordinates at several official functions in the capital.

The failure to use all of the $6.8 billion originally earmarked under that program was, however, a sign that mortgage money is scarce, regardless of the interest rate.
